

COMMITTEE RESUMES CAMPAIGN FUND QUIZ

NAMES OF CONTRIBUTORS WERE DEEMED CONFIDENTIAL AND RECORDS DESTROYED, SAYS MR. BLISS.

WITNESSES RETICENT

Libby Knows Very Little in Regard to Standard Oil Company's Donation—Morgan and Roosevelt Testify Later in Week.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The senate sub-committee's renewal of the investigation of presidential campaign contributions today marked the beginning of a hearing that is expected to bring many of the leading financiers, politicians and candidates to the witness stand during the next two months.

Theodore Roosevelt and J. Pierpont Morgan are scheduled to step into the spot light later this week, the financier appearing Thursday and Colonel Roosevelt on Friday. Ormsby M. Harg, Col. Roosevelt's contest manager at the Chicago convention, and who organized the south for the colonel, was on hand when the committee convened today.

Bliss First Witness. Senators Clapp, Oliver, Paynter, and Pomerene were present when the committee went into session. Cornelius Bliss was the first witness. He said he was an executor of his father's estate and had sole custody of his father's papers.

"Have you found any papers bearing on the campaign funds handled by your father?" asked Chairman Clapp.

Mr. Bliss placed in evidence a report from the auditor who examined his father's accounts when he resigned as treasurer of the republican committee. He said the records did not show any contributions by John D. Archbold or the Standard Oil company. Members of the committee examined the records.

No names of contributors to the 1904 campaign funds appeared in the records. Mr. Bliss was asked to read his father's letter of resignation to Harry S. New, which has also been placed in evidence. The letter set forth that the late Mr. Bliss had held as confidential the names of contributors and the amount of their contributions. "In the last four presidential campaigns in which I have acted as treasurer."

"I have persistently refused to make these reports public," the letter read, "because I regard the returns of campaign contributions to party committees as confidential. I believe the right to refuse to make public these contributions is as sacred as the right of a man to cast a secret ballot in the election."

Taft's Personal Letter. The letter added that the republican committee's receipts in 1904 had been a "trifle below $300,000," in 1896, $3,500,000; and in 1892, $1,500,000. The witness said he had discovered other less intimate nature, and more or less intimate nature, and he handed to Chairman Clapp. One was from President Roosevelt, another from William H. Taft, as secretary of war.

The committee suspended its inquiry for a few minutes while the members read the letters privately. Senator Clapp had the letters placed in the record as exhibits. The two letters became known. That from Secretary Taft, written May 6, 1904, urged the late Mr. Bliss to take the chairmanship, saying President Taft was "most anxious" for it, and adding that as chairman, Mr. Bliss would "secure the confidence of those from whom contributions may be expected."

Records Were Destroyed. The letters from President Roosevelt, dated the same, also urged him to take the examination by Senator Paynter. The witness said that his father had told him he allowed the books of the treasurer's office of the republican national committee to be destroyed because he, the elder Bliss, believed the records useless. They contained, he said, the names and the amounts, from various contributors. The witness did not know who destroyed them. The witness could not remember having talked with his father about the much discussed $100,000 Standard Oil company contribution.

Know of Nothing Which I Destroyed that could in any way assist this committee," he declared emphatically. A vigorous cross-examination by Senator Pomerene failed to shake his statement. Mr. Bliss then was excused and William H. Libby of New York, foreign representative of the Standard Oil company, was sworn.

Standard Oil Donation. Chairman Clapp asked Mr. Libby if he had anything to do with advising the company about legislative affairs.

"Only as to tariff matters when it was threatened to exempt the Standard Oil company from the protective tariff," replied Mr. Libby.

"The campaign of 1904 foreshadowed a tariff revision," suggested Senator Clapp. "What interest did your company take in that campaign?"

"Nothing that I know of in the way of contributions," said Mr. Libby. "I was informed by Mr. H. H. Rogers that in 1904 the Standard Oil company made a very large contribution to the republican national campaign fund." He added that he knew nothing personally about it.

After a brief executive session the committee took a recess until 2:00 p. m.

In a private conference at noon the committee decided that Ormsby M. Harg, contest manager for Colonel Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, would not be heard today. Mr. Harg, however, was ready and expected to testify.

OPPONENTS TO DIX SEEKING A LEADER

New York Democrats Opposing Governor Want a Stronger Man to Head State Ticket.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Those who oppose the renomination of Gov. Dix spent the early hours today while the delegates were gathering for the democratic state convention tomorrow trying to crystallize sentiment around some single candidate.

An effort was made to persuade Charles F. Murphy leader of Tammany hall that the placing of the governor at head of the state ticket again would mean the loss of many county tickets even if the governor was reelected and a stronger man could be chosen. Mr. Murphy insisted however that Gov. Dix should be renominated.

STABS MAN TO DEATH ON CHICAGO STREET

Enraged Sailor Kills Man Who He Said Robbed Him of His Earnings.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Michael Cooper, a sailor who had been robbed of his earnings two hours previous, darted across the street in front of the Northwestern railway station today and plunged a knife into the jugular vein of David Weathers. Weathers bled to death in two minutes. Cooper told the police who arrested him that he was sure Weathers was the man who robbed him.

TO PROBE KILLING OF THREE CITIZENS

Investigation of Deaths of Men in Augusta Street Railway Strike Will Be Investigated.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 30.—Investigation of the killing of three citizens by members of the state militia—an outgrowth of the strike of Augusta street railway employees was started today. The three men killed trespassed on "dead line" territory established by the militia to protect the railway company's power plant.

Captain Jovitt and Captain Henderson together with every man who guarded the line will face trial by a military court. It is expected the hearings will take place this week. The men killed were business men and their friends assert that they were ignorant of the line established by the soldiers.

The city continued quiet yesterday and late last night the military force was reduced to 40 men. Negotiations looking to a settlement of the strike proved fruitless.

EXCITEMENT AND STRAIN CAUSE RACINE MAN'S DEATH

Racine, Sept. 30.—The strain of carrying the body of Emil Nelhagie, killed by a train a mile west of Union Grove yesterday, to an undertaking establishment and the excitement incident to the inquest at which he had been summoned to act as a juror, caused the death of Robert Smith, one of the best known residents in Racine county Sunday afternoon. Smith had been a sufferer of heart trouble.

WISCONSIN CITIES ARE FACING COAL FAMINE?

Neenah, Sept. 30.—This city and it is presumed other cities are facing a coal famine. Local retail dealers have received word from the big anthracite coal companies that no orders will be received after October 1st for several months as they are far behind in their orders. Local dealers have small stock piles which will last but a short time.

CHICAGO'S LITTLE THEATRE WILL BE OPENED TO-NIGHT

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Society devotees of the drama are keenly interested in the dedication and formal opening tonight of the new Fine Art Theatre. The new playhouse is the first "Little Theatre" in Chicago, and is a gem of luxury and comfort. It seats 550 persons. A gala performance of Wolf-Ferrari's opera, "The Secret of Suzanne," has been selected as the initial attraction.

London, Sept. 30.—The cessation of hostilities in the island of Samos is announced today by the Porte according to a news agency dispatch from Constantinople.

HEALTH ADVOCATES TO MEET SATURDAY

Convention of Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Society Called at Madison.

Madison Wis., Sept. 30.—The fourth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association will be held in joint session with the state conference on Charities and Corrections to be held in the assembly chamber next Saturday. Governor McGovern will serve as chairman of the evening to introduce Dr. Livingston Farrand of New York, Executive Secretary of the National association for the prevention of tuberculosis. Reverend W. F. Greenman of Milwaukee will be the other speaker for the joint meeting of the association.

The first meeting of the association will be held on October 4th. The opening address will be delivered by Dr. M. P. Ravenel, president of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association. The president's address will be followed by a report from Dr. Hoyt E. Deartholt, executive secretary and John Koppmeier, treasurer. Other speakers for that day will be Dr. Jean M. Cooke of Darlington who will give a ten years' survey of La Fayette Co., Miss Edith Shatto of Milwaukee, who will describe the Milwaukee plan, and Dr. P. L. Harrington of Milwaukee, who will discuss the proposals for health legislation.

At the Saturday morning session in Milwaukee will discuss the subject of play grounds, and Mrs. Mary D. Bradford, superintendent of schools in Kenosha will read a paper on "Open Air Schools." The subject of "fortifying a child against tuberculosis" will be discussed by Dr. A. O. Omsted, president of the school board at Green Bay. One of the principal addresses will be given by Dr. J. W. Coon, superintendent of the state sanatorium at Wales, and State Forester Griffith will speak on "What forestry and forest reserves offer."

Besides representatives from 56 local associations in different cities and officers of the state association the meetings will be attended by doctors, visiting nurses, school superintendents, and principals and other interested people. It is expected that the attendance of the joint meetings will be over 300.

WOODROW WILSON ADDRESSES AMERICAN ROAD CONGRESS.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 30.—Governor Woodrow Wilson came to Atlantic City today to give the official greeting to the delegates assembled from all parts of the country for the annual meeting of the American Road Congress. The gathering is the largest of its kind ever held in the United States, and the speakers who will be heard during the week include the most notable men of America who have taken up the crusade for good roads.

NEENAH FIRMS IMPORT LARGE GANGS OF LABORERS.

Neenah, Sept. 30.—The scarcity of laboring men in Neenah is causing various manufacturing firms to send for men from other points. Large numbers of Greeks, Hungarians and other foreigners are being brought here. The highest wages ever paid are now being paid here.

IS PAINFULLY SCALDED WHILE BUTCHERING A HOG.

Neenah, Sept. 30.—Charles Khort, a butcher lies in the Clark Hospital in a precarious condition as a result of bad scalds which he received in a slaughter house. He was about to immerse a pig in a kettle of hot water when the animal dropped and the scalding water covered Khort's head and upper portion of his body.

PLASTERERS MEET IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 30.—The annual convention of the International Association of Operative Plasterers began here today and will continue through the week. The attendance includes delegates from many cities and towns of the United States and Canada.

RECALL INDIAN ATTACK ON TOWN OF HUTCHINSON

Hutchinson, Minn., Sept. 30.—A two days' celebration was begun here today in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the attack made by the Indians on the town of Hutchinson during the Sioux war in 1862. Several of the survivors of the little band of settlers who repelled the attack were among the participants in today's exercises.

STRIKE CONTINUES AT BINGHAM, UTAH

No Indication that Work Would be Resumed Although Such Reports Were Issued at Two Mines.

Bingham, Utah, Sept. 30.—There were no indications this morning that work would be resumed at the Bingham mines, although there was a rumor that the United States and Yampa mines would be opened tomorrow. Officials of these companies refused either to deny or affirm. That the miners will not return to work until the companies meet the demands of the union was the announcement made here today.

A meeting of miners was held last night and a resolution was adopted relating the statement of J. M. Hayes, assistant secretary and cashier of the Utah Copper Company to the effect that more than 80 per cent of the strikers are willing to go back to work when adequate protection is afforded them.

TURKEY WILL CRUSH BALKAN HOSTILITY

Elaborate Preparations Being Made by Ottoman Government to Suppress Threatened Revolt.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 30.—Turkey is making elaborate military preparations to meet any hostile demonstrations in the Balkans according to a semi-official statement published today. The Ottoman government has called up 100,000 men forming eleven divisions of the Redifs or Second Reserves for six weeks training in field maneuvers.

The Turkish troops sent from Thrace to Albania some time ago have now been ordered to return to their stations so that the only troops at present detached from their ordinary posts are those concentrated in Salonki along the Danubian and Symra in consequence of the war with Italy.

REMAINS OF DWYER WERE BURIED TODAY

Interred in Vault at Fawcett Cemetery Near Edgerton—Eastern Relatives' Telegram for Body.

Within a short distance from his former home and boyhood haunts, and in the lot which he had himself chosen, Edward L. Dwyer, soldier of fortune, one-time millionaire, dauntless adventurer, and suicide, was today laid to rest in Fawcett cemetery near Edgerton. Close relatives in the east had offered to take charge of the remains but it was decided to respect the evident wishes of the dead man and bury him in the lot which he had selected. The body was taken to Edgerton on the St. Paul railway train which left here at 10:35 this morning. There it was turned over by Mr. Kimball to J. A. Clark, the local undertaker, who assumed charge of the funeral.

P. J. Albany of New York, a close relative of Dwyer, and his former business partner, sent four different telegrams to Chief of Police Appleby inquiring what disposal was to be made of the body this day.

He requested that it be shipped to him at Torrington, Conn. the birthplace of Dwyer, in an octagon imitation oak casket with six handles in a Maxwell or Skalen steel vault. George W. Beach of Manchester, New Hampshire, also wired for particulars concerning the death of Dwyer and asked if the body had been claimed. Replies have been made to the inquiries of both Mr. Burke and Mr. Beach.

Daniel E. Kaine, the Chicago detective who has been investigating the death of Dwyer, for the companies in which he was insured, left Janesville this afternoon, having obtained all the information desired.

TRIAL OF ALLEGED DYNAMITERS TO OPEN SOON IN INDIANAPOLIS. LEADERS OF BRIDGE AND STRUCTURAL IRON WORKERS DEFENDANTS

One of the biggest legal battles of the year is soon to be fought in Indianapolis, where fifty-one men, mostly prominent leaders of the international association of bridge and structural iron workers, will be tried before Federal Judge A. B. Anderson on the charge of dynamiting bridges and buildings in all sections of the country, and of conspiring to destroy property by dynamite. United States District Attorney Miller will handle the case for the government, while Senator John W. Kern of Indiana will take the case for the defense. Frank M. Ryan, international president of the structural iron workers is the most prominent of the defendants. J. Orrie McManigal, who has confessed to having dynamited many buildings and bridges, will be one of the government's main witnesses.

CANDIDATES DEPLORE STAND OF MCGOVERN

Issue Statement in Which They Declare His Action a Mistake—Will Add to Wilson's Strength.

La Crosse, Sept. 30.—Lieutenant governor Thomas Morris, C. H. Crownhart of the state industrial commission, Walter C. Owen, candidate for attorney general, and Senator Otto Bochard, who have been holding conferences here to consider attitudes that ought to be taken by candidates on the state ticket in reference to Gov. McGovern's declaration for Col. Roosevelt, issued a statement today in which they deplored the governor's line-up with Roosevelt and declared it to be a mistake. In spite of the fact that they are not in sympathy with the governor's attitude they declare it to be the duty of progressives to declare to support the state ticket and have announced their intention of so doing.

Helps Wilson. Madison, Sept. 30.—Gov. McGovern's statement in favor of the Bull Moose party will only augment the majority to be given by the state of Wisconsin to Woodrow Wilson for president. His statement has stirred up the progressive republicans, and they will take extra precautions to see that Wilson's supporters go to the polls. It has turned apathetic voters into the Wilson column.

This is the statement made today by Senator J. J. Blaine, while awaiting the arrival of Rudolph Spreckles of San Francisco, the millionaire philanthropist who is back of a movement to organize Woodrow Wilson clubs among progressive voters in Western states. Senator Blaine said the progressive republican speakers will be put on the platform in all western states to speak for Wilson.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAPTURED IN CITY

Theodore Hoeft, Wanted by Sheriff of Floyd County, Iowa Arrested This Morning.

Theodore Hoeft, an escaped prisoner from Charles City Iowa, was arrested in this city about 11:30 o'clock this morning by Chief of Police Appleby who succeeded in locating him through a description given by H. D. White, sheriff of Floyd county, that state. Chief of Police Appleby notified him of the arrest of Hoeft as soon as possible. Hoeft consented to return to Iowa without extradition papers, being served. Nine days ago he was arrested here and pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness, paying the fine which was imposed. Sheriff White cautioned Chief of Police to give his prisoner no opportunity to run away as he would certainly take it. Hoeft claims that he was arrested and sentenced to fifteen days in jail for "beating up" the sheriff. The letter received here did not state for what he was sentenced. While in Janesville Hoeft worked with a cement workers' crew. An officer is expected to arrive here tonight or tomorrow morning and take him back to Charles City.

MINISTERS DISCUSSED TOPICS OF INTEREST

SOCIALISM, WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND OTHER SUBJECTS AT MEETING OF ROCK CO. MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

MISSION CAMPAIGN UP

Was Planned for Month of November—Dr. Beaton Gave Address on "Clean Bill of Health for Marriage."

Socialism and woman's suffrage in the way the church is affected by them were discussed this morning at the meeting of the Rock County Ministerial association at the Y. M. C. A. building parlors. About twenty of the pastors of churches in the various towns and cities of the county were present, listening to the addresses and taking part in the open discussions following.

The subject of the "Perils of Socialism" was dealt with by the Rev. W. A. Rowell of Beloit, and his remarks and the open discussion following his address proved most interesting. "The Moral Element in the Demand for Woman Suffrage" was discussed by the Rev. L. C. Randolph of Milton, who made an excellent talk in favor of giving women the ballot.

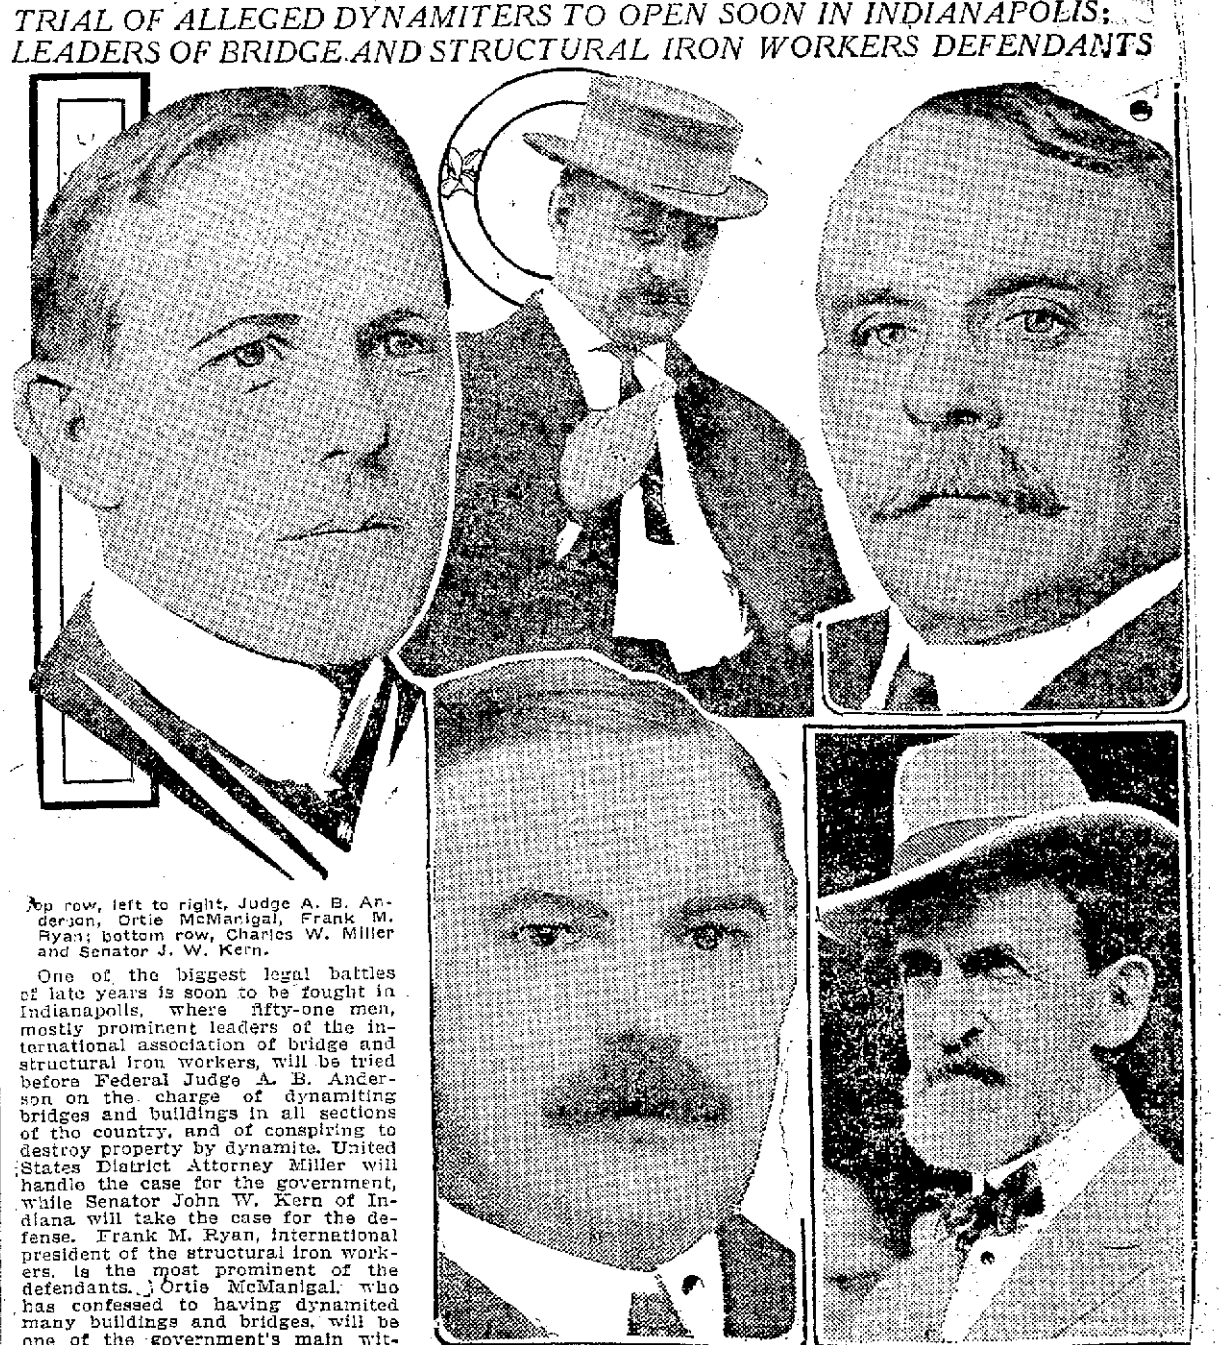

"A Clean Bill of Health for Marriage" was the topic discussed by Dr. Beaton and Rev. John Reynolds this afternoon.

On Socialism. Socialism was defined by Rev. Rowell as the "aggregate end of a social order who are interested in overthrowing the present order in the interests of class." The causes were given as a certain social situation together with discontent, and certain ideals which the members of this order seek to realize. Public control of capital and co-operation in control of capital, he said, were the fundamental ideas of socialism. The idea of the division of wealth, and ignorance of corporate affairs, he said, existed among certain classes of the socialists, especially those who have no knowledge of the principles of socialism.

The causes of the spirit of unrest were given as the wrongs suffered by the workingmen, such as conditions under which the labor and the wages they receive; the inequalities of life, especially in regard to the unequal distribution of wealth; the strong hold privilege has with the government; and the waste of the world in regard to money and waste of life. The result of this unrest, said Rev. Rowell, is that a great body of socialists has arisen and the growth has driven the parties in power to adopt socialistic doctrines.

In two ways socialism is a menace Rev. Rowell declared: First, in a political, which is not serious, but will drive the other political parties to meet the needs of the working man, and in a religious way—it's effect on the church and whether socialism is a religion or anti-religion. In the latter way Rev. Rowell stated that some of the socialists declare that socialism is a religion in itself, while others say that it is anti-religious and attempts to offset the work of the church. He cited as an example legends on banners carried in the Lawrence strike.

FIND BIG DEPOSIT OF MOULDERS' SAND ON MAXFIELD FARM

Tract Which Will Yield Million Tons Is Estimated, Located on Land in Town of Janesville.

Large deposits of moulder's sand, valued at over a million dollars have been discovered on the Maxfield farm, four miles northwest of this city in the town of Janesville, according to Harry L. Maxfield, who stated today that he was making negotiations for a spur from the Northwestern tracks which cross the land and for establishing a plant for loading and removing the product.

It is estimated that there are fully a million tons of the dirt on the farm. The tract is located between the tracks of the Northwestern company known as the Evansville cut-off, and the Three-mile creek both of which cross the Maxfield land. The deposit extends over a number of acres and goes down a depth of eight or ten feet. A cubic yard of the sand will weigh from two to four tons.

The deposit was discovered by J. H. Gately of this city some time ago who remarked concerning the sand around an old well-hole on the rear of the farm. Subsequent investigation disclosed the fact that the entire area in that vicinity was composed of this valuable material.

Samples have been sent to Milwaukee manufacturers and orders for a number of carloads have already been received. Mr. Maxfield stated today that he intended to have a plant started this fall if possible although operations might be delayed until next spring.

The price paid for the sand by the iron foundries ranged from $1.25 to $1.50. The cost of loading and transportation to Milwaukee will be about ten cents per ton. The sand is red in color and is a mixture of common sand and red clay.

NO WORK THIS YEAR ON MILWAUKEE AVE.

Contractors Expect to Have Time Taken Up with Improvement of Washington Street.

Improvement of Milwaukee avenue between Harrison and Garfield streets will probably not be made this season according to George Croft, superintendent for Gund & Graham, the contractors to whom the job has been let. The improvement of Washington street, now in progress, will probably take all the stone that the city crusher can put out this season. The east side of the street from Mineral Point avenue to Maple Court is ready for stone and this morning plowing and excavation was begun on the west side of the street. Old foundation will be used throughout and it is expected that not more than 200 cubic yards of stone will be required for making repairs in it. Upon this will be placed a half course of macadam, four and a half inches deep at the street railway rails, and three inches deep at the gutters. The city saves about $4000 through using a half course of macadam.

The paving crew is still short a few men and four more could find employment. The five Bain dump wagons recently ordered have arrived and are being put to use. Mr. Croft advises automobile drivers going north through the city to take Pearl street as far out as the Carl grocery and in this way avoid traveling upon Washington street in its present torn-up condition.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Susan Williams Word has been received in Janesville of the death of Mrs. Susan Williams, a former resident of the town of Center and of this city, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John MacVean at Austin, Ill. She passed away Sunday morning following an illness of over a year. In spite of her extended sickness her death was rather unexpected.

Mrs. Williams lived for many years in Center moving from there to Janesville. Later she went to Chicago and Austin. She had many friends in this city and in the county. She leaves two daughters: Miss Villa Williams of Chicago and Mrs. John MacVean of Austin, also one son, Harry Williams who lives in the west; two brothers, Samuel and M. Coffman of Chicago and another brother and two sisters living in the state of Washington.

The body will be brought to Janesville Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock and services will be held at the Oak Hill chapel.

LIMA

Lima, Sept. 28.—Mr. Zillner has purchased the farm property of H. J. Dixon, the Jenkins place.

Several Lima people were in Milton Junction to the harvest festival. Mrs. I. L. Reese, Miss Ette Truman and Carrie Johnson attended the Rock Co. W. C. T. U. convention in Evansville this week.

Her many friends will be sorry to know of the critical illness of Miss Lillie Peacock.

Miss Mary Clyne is sewing in this vicinity.

Mrs. Alice H. McKinzie of Chicago was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gleason.

Amos Sewright and Evelyn Dixon were married in Charles City Iowa, on Wednesday. They arrived in Lima on the morning train Thursday to make her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon a short visit and returned to Iowa on Saturday where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leudtke are happy over the arrival of a daughter in their home on Tuesday.

A. H. Johnson of Durand, Ill., is visiting his sister for a week.

Fred Osterheldt, wife and son, of Stoughton, were in town between trains Friday.

Mrs. McMillan and children spent a couple of days of this week with her parents in North Lima.

W. D. McComb is having a hog pen built.

Mrs. Ella Elphick was up from Whitewater this week.

H. J. Dixon lost a valuable colt on Tuesday. It was killed by being kicked in the head by a horse.

SAFE PLACE FOR VALUABLES

Physician Has Found Office Appurtenance Better Than Any Lock and Key Yet Devised.

A physician who has had much trouble with meddlesome servants, has just discovered a security ward in his office which he says is far safer than a locked drawer or a safe.

"Servants like to investigate things in a doctor's office," he said. "Every new servant is a new investigator. A locked instrument case is only a temptation. They get into that, and if caught explain that they were only dusting the instruments. Servants often know as much or more about a doctor's private accounts than the doctor himself. They rummage through drawers and help themselves to anything they see."

"I had one servant who dusted my office daily who, I found out one day, was a habitual user of morphine. I had noticed that a bottle in my locked chest was too often emptied, and one day I caught her slamming the door of the chest and then I knew. I said nothing. I took the bottle of morphine tablets and placed them inside a human skull which I kept on my desk. That was the last of the morphine thefts."

"One day I asked the servant why she never dusted the skull on my desk. In fact I reprimanded her for carelessness."

"Oh, doctor," she said, "I'm afraid of bones. I'd rather lose my job than touch that skull."

"And now," continued the doctor, "I'm not afraid to put a roll of money in that skull. Its safer than any safe."

POSSIBLY TOO MUCH FOR HER

Man Should Have Recognized That There Are Limits Even to Fairy's Power.

Once upon a time a man who lived out Bloomfield way did an unusual service for a fairy queen. I don't remember exactly what it was; perhaps he stepped into a drift to let her pass. At any rate she said to him in gratitude:

"Sir, for your kindness I will reward you by granting you three wishes. Name what you desire most in all the world and it shall be yours."

The man who lived out Bloomfield way thought a moment. He ought have lived out South Orange way or down Elizabeth way or over Arlington way, but it happened that he dwelt out Bloomfield way, and as this is a true story, I must tell it exactly as it was. He thought a moment, and then he thought another moment, making two moments all told, after which he said:

"I wish people would quit eating peanuts in the street cars. It gives the cars such a vegetable air, and besides, it is very harmful, for, as you know, people should have cheerful surroundings at meals."

On hearing this request the fairy queen vanished in a flash of flame with a deafening report, and the next time the man got aboard a car to go to his home out Bloomfield way, the passengers were still eating peanuts and the car had a breath.

This teaches us that fairies are not all they are cracked up to be.—Newark News.

Fairness Wins.

That it pays to be fair with employees was illustrated recently in the New York financial district. A young man who had worked for a large house for three years, was forced to remain at home two days because of illness. He had never been absent from his desk a day during the entire time, not even for a summer vacation. Nevertheless, when he received his salary envelope the amount of two days' pay had been deducted.

The boy was indignant and resigned on the spot. The following day he closed a deal involving $100,000 which would have meant a clear profit of $20,000 to the firm he had just left. The young man turned the business over to a rival house and was given a position. His contract calls for double the salary he had received at the old house and stipulates that he is to receive one month's vacation each summer with full pay.

The Horse Pedometers.

The whorls of hair on the coats of horses and other animals are natural pedometers, inasmuch as they register the locomotive activities or the animals on whose bodies they are found.

The best examples and the greatest number of these hairy whorls and crests are found on the domestic horse.

A study of the action of the underlying muscles explains the origin of these peculiarities in the lay of the hair and furnishes the justification for calling them pedometers, although the analogy is, of course, merely superficial.

Fatal Gas.

Illuminating gas has caused more deaths in some states recently than have scarlet fever, infantile paralysis, or typhoid fever. In Massachusetts it has become an important cause of death and serious sickness. The repeal of the law regulating the amount of carbon monoxid in gas has been, according to Prof. Sedgwick of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of the direct causes of the increase here, and it is recommended that the state go back to the old-fashioned coal gas and prohibit the manufacture of water gas.—Boston Post.

CELEBRATED MISSION FESTIVAL YESTERDAY

German Lutheran Church at Edgerton Observes Annual Occasion —Weber Funeral Held.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Sept. 30.—Sunday the German Lutheran church congregation celebrated its annual mission fest. With perfect weather and special music arranged for the occasion, it brought out an exceedingly large attendance, especially so in the morning. Rev. Wenzel of Hanover, Wis., and Rev. Schroth of Mayville, Wis., delivered able sermons in commemoration of the event.

Weber Funeral Held. The funeral of the late Mrs. Charles Weber, who was found dead in bed on the afternoon of the 27th inst., took place from the late home yesterday morning at ten o'clock. Rev. North, pastor of the M. E. church, offered a prayer, after which the remains were taken to Cambridge for burial. The services there were held in the Norwegian church, conducted by Rev. F. Boller, pastor of the Presbyterian church of that place, who delivered a sermon which was most touching, and the speaker displayed great oratory. The pallbearers were: Otto Griep, Robert Venske, Charles Schumacher, James Barton, Herman Griep and William Schields.

Edgerton News Notes. George Wesendonk spent Sunday in Beloit with relatives.

Joseph J. Leary went to Stoughton this morning in the interest of the Edgerton Cigar company.

Mr. and Mrs. Emily Rusch spent Sunday in Stoughton at the home of the lady's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Banker, residing in the second ward, welcome the arrival of a daughter, born early this morning.

Misses Eva Johnson, Violet Trevorah and Eva Hutson were Janesville visitors Sunday afternoon.

The ladies of the W. R. C. will hold their annual harvest supper Tuesday evening in the T. A. and B. hall. This time the price is 25 cents per plate and not on the Dutch market plan as in previous years.

Peter Carlson, A. H. Clarke and C. W. Clatworthy left today for Whitehall to sample tobacco for a week or more.

Laughable Reduction.

A statement was made in the house of parliament in 1610 that the coal mines of Newcastle would be productive for at least twenty-one years.

Louis Hellbroner.

Louis Hellbroner, who conducts a mail order scouting office for a half dozen big league clubs, has announced his candidacy for the presidency of the Central league, to succeed Dr. Frank B. Carson. Hellbroner was manager of the St. Louis Cardinals for Stanley Robison one year and formerly owned the Grand Rapids club. He later was scout for the Cincinnati Reds.

AMERICAN DUCHESS HOSTESS TO ROYALTY

Duchess of Roxburghe.

Great preparations are being made for King George's visit to Floors Castle, the stately home of the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe. The Roxburghe residence, which is a splendid Scottish establishment, was recently built with a part of the $25,000,000 which the duchess inherited on the death of her father, Ogden Goelet. Each year the duchess has a succession of distinguished visitors at the castle, but this is the first time that England's king has deigned to call.

From A Comfy Bed To An Icy Room B-U-R-R

Makes one shiver to think of it

It's hard enough under ordinary conditions to crawl from under those nice warm covers, but to have to dress in a room when the thermometer is down around freeze—slivers and shakes—B-U-R-R.

DON'T DO IT. What's the use when it's so easy to make that room warm and comfortable?

Get A Gas Heater

Have it connected to your gas jet. Then 10 minutes before getting-up-time, jump out of bed, light the heater, pull down the windows and crawl back in bed. Lay there in comfort for 10 minutes. By that time your room's as warm as toast. Sounds good don't it? Call at our office and let us show you this wonderful heater.

"Catcher ye rosebuds while ye may,
Old Time is still a-flying.
And this same flower that blooms
today,

Tomorrow may be dying."
Thus sang the old poet. Here are a few of yesterday's rosebuds. Chief Bender, who less than a year ago was pitching himself to glory; Frank Baker, who was clouting his name into history; Rube Oldring, who was one of the heroes of last year's world's series. Where are they now?
Blasted, every one. Bender and Oldring are suspended and in disgrace; Baker is sick and out of the game.

New flowers have risen to take their places, but they in turn may begin to fade tomorrow.

Hank O'Day says Rube Marquard has pitched for several weeks as if his arm was tired. Hank thinks that he will not be able to cut much of a

President Neal of the Blue Grass league announced recently that the league will continue without any doubt next season, and that if possible the clubs will be more evenly matched. Frankfort won easily this year. He says the league has sold $10,000 worth of players before the drafting season began, and that there would likely be $6,500 to $7,000 worth of players drafted at the end of the season in October.

Captain Gregory, of the Australian cricket team which recently arrived in this country, is trying to arrange a baseball game between his players and a picked team from the New York and Brooklyn big league clubs.
"My team," he says, "is the greatest baseball aggregation in Australia. We play baseball for practice in running and fielding, and are confident of being able to give a good account of ourselves against the best nine that can be produced."

Captain Gregory's proposal is that both use cricket bats, playing the whole game of baseball under the national rules, with the exception that the baseball player's shall be allowed to use their gloves, as is usual with them, while the cricketers, as is customary with them, will play with bare hands.

The good old American game of baseball having proved so successful, Canada is anxious to take a whiff at our sort of football. Interested parties are trying to arrange a game between the University of Toronto team, interprovincial champions of the Dominion, and either Cornell or Pennsylvania. It has been suggested that the rival teams play one-half under the Canadian rules and the other half under the Yankee code.

COULON TO DEFEND BANTAM TITLE IN NEW YORK OCT. 18; MEETS KID WILLIAMS

Johnny Coulon.

Johnny Coulon, king of bantams, will defend his title against Kid Williams of Baltimore in a 10-round bout at New York on October 18.
The fight will take place in Madison Square Garden at 116 pounds ringside.

Coulon, who has been summering at High Lake, Wis., reports that he is getting himself into fine condition for a strenuous fall and winter campaign. He expects to meet Frankie Morris at Kerosha in the near future. Offers have been received from St. Louis promoters who want him to meet Danny Webster over the short route.

WELL KNOWN MAGAZINE WRITER RETURNS TO HER FIRST LOVE—THE FOOTLIGHTS

Louise Closser Hale.

The lure of the footlights was too great for Louise Closser Hale.
After having made a name for herself on the stage a few years ago she conceived the idea that she was tired of the life, and went into retirement. She wrote delightful stories for high-class magazines, and took the editorship of one of the best known women's magazines in the country. She soon found, however, like most players who have attempted an early retirement, that her profession was "in the blood," and this season again finds her nightly with her make-up box on her dressing room table. She is playing now with Tim Murphy in "Honest Jim Blount."

The Paper Wedding.
The "paper wedding" marks the completion of the second year of married life, and is sometimes the first one celebrated, since the cotton anniversary seems to offer very few possibilities in the way of unique entertainment. For the paper wedding we can decorate our rooms and table flowers that are now being modeled most exquisitely after the natural flowers.—Harper's Bazar.

No Perfection in Humanity.
Practically no human being is perfect. Even those that stand for splendid health and development usually lack in some respect; and the rank and file of men all have some weak point. With one it is a heart not quite perfect, with another a lung, and so on.

Formation of Diamonds.
Vol Bolton thinks that diamonds were formed in nature by the action of metal vapors, such as iron or magnesium, on carbon dioxide. He has succeeded in making microscopic diamonds by the action of mercury vapor on carbon.

that we must be idle.—Mrs. Humphry

FLEEING FROM TAXATION.

"Canada Official Year Book records that during the past three years nearly 400,000 persons, mostly farmers and their families, have quitted the United States to seek their fortune. Some may have sold their lands in the States; others must have abandoned them in silence, with the sacred associations that surrounded them; and all must have felt that nothing but dire necessity had urged them to such a step.

"This sinister movement has been attributed to the desire for cheap lands in Canada. But, as there can be no advantage in abandoning improved lands for unbroken ones, relinquishing what you already own for what has to be purchased, there must be another and deeper reason. This is surely in the ominous influence of misgovernment; and the pressure of a tax system that levies over $200 a year upon the families of the fleeing emigrants.

"In this paper's exposure of our terrific tax burden it was shown that the federal, state and municipal taxation in the United States had increased over 2 1/2 times in ten years. In some of the states, and especially those on our frontiers, the state taxes alone, to say nothing of the federal and local burdens, have increased not 2 1/2, but 3 1/2 times during the same interval. Here are the figures:

"Taxation in thirteen selected states.

States—	1912.	1902.
Connecticut	$8,229,654	$3,233,900
Idaho	3,814,985	456,772
Maryland	9,581,605	2,852,956
Minnesota	19,873,280	6,220,033
New Hampshire.	2,707,535	748,456
New Mexico	2,025,445	538,473
North Dakota	4,665,522	911,672
Oklahoma	2,654,300	741,842
South Dakota	4,422,782	1,273,328
Vermont	2,869,896	1,156,284
Washington	8,757,748	2,399,932
West Virginia	6,226,809	1,755,048
Wyoming	2,457,617	414,989

Totals. $78,286,873 $22,763,766

"While something may be advanced in extenuation of such extravagant expenditures in the case of new states like New Mexico, what shall be said of well-settled ones like Connecticut, Maryland, New Hampshire and Vermont? Who is spending this money and what is it spent for? What excuse can the virtually self-elected administrators of these commonwealths offer for demanding from their people 3 1/2 times as much tribute today as was found to be sufficient ten years ago? What shall be said of the monstrous taxation in Minnesota, Dakota and the other border states?

"Does it not seem that our people, the best of our people, are fleeing from unbearable taxation and disaster, rather than deserting their own improved lands and homes, to enter the wilderness and begin life all over again?

"Not only has this deplorable movement a bearing upon our railroads and other industries represented on the Stock Exchange; it has a profound national importance, and cries aloud for remedy."

It will be noticed from these statistics, compiled by the Wall Street Journal, that Wisconsin is not the only state that is cursed with burdensome taxes. It is also worthy of note that most of the states mentioned belong to the western group, where progressive reform has been in full swing.

The per capita tax in this country at the present time is $38.50, or $200 for the average family of five. That means extravagance all along the line. It also means that the rule of the individual, which has largely succeeded the rule of parties, is an expensive proposition. The people of Wisconsin imagine today that they govern themselves. If they do, they have no occasion to be proud of the job. It costs more to run a monarchy than a republic, and the nation, as well as the state, is getting a taste of monarchical rule.

THE WORM HAS TURNED.

Politicians of every creed in Wisconsin are discussing the new brand introduced by their governor, who has kept them guessing for the last two months. This new acrobat will now show them how a man rides to defeat by attempting to straddle two horses which are so far apart as to make the effort daring, to say the least. Hear the little man talk.

"As a republican I cannot support President Taft because within the brief period of a single term he has wrecked a great and historic political party. As a progressive I cannot support him because he is utterly reactionary and grows more so every day."

When McGovern cast in his lot with the disgruntled colonel, two months ago, he ceased to be a republican, as his inspired leader gave him and every other disciple of the new faith to understand. The creed which he was asked to adopt was short and to the point. "We want Teddy" was all there was to it. But the man also has a sense of honor, as will be seen by the following paragraph.

"The one objection that he was not honestly re-nominated and is not now rightly the head of the republican ticket is enough. His re-nomination was stolen. I was in the convention and saw it done."

How shocking it must have been, especially to a man familiar with Wisconsin politics, and yet the party was good enough for him and his chief until it turned them down at the Chicago convention.

Talk about stolen goods, what sort of a proposition is it to capture a nomination and then desert the party which nominated him. The cry of "stop thief" is a far cry which in this case lacks significance.

If the republican of the state are not orphans today, so far as a state ticket is concerned, what are they? It will be interesting to note the next move of the czar, for he is neither dead nor asleep, and there is liable to be something doing all along the line.

The following story is told of R. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago & Alton railroad, who last year took his family up in Indiana for a two weeks' stay, putting up at a farmhouse where quiet and rest were assured. There was a pig sty in close proximity to the house, which under certain wind conditions was extremely annoying. This year Mr. Worthington wrote the farmer that he would like to secure accommodations again but stated that the piggery which was objectionable should be attended to before he would engage accommodations. The farmer wrote back: "Can accommodate you all right and there have been no hogs on the place since you left."

The policy of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in dealing with the railroads of the country, is short-sighted, to say the least. It is estimated that the roads need $8,000,000, 000 for extensions and new equipment to keep pace with the demands of business and development of the country, but under the present stringent regulations, treasuries are depleted, and capital difficult to secure. The railroads, as well as the people, are entitled to better treatment.

If the scrap between the senior senator and the governor, results in loosening the grip of the iron hand on the state, it will be worth while, and should be encouraged. It remains to be seen whether McGovern is big enough to make good his defy. In the meantime the people of the state have everything to gain and nothing to lose by saying, "Sit 'em Tight!"

Governor Hadley of Missouri, who attempted to remain regular, while favoring Roosevelt, at the Chicago convention, now attaches a string to his loyalty by attempting to tie Taft up to certain policies which he favors. The president can hardly afford to comply with the demands, and Hadley will doubtless be trotting in McGovern's class in the near future.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is again running for congress, down in his district, with good chances of winning, in spite of the opposition of the Chicago Tribune. There are a few places in the western hemisphere that the Tribune don't control.

The colonel returns from his western tour, well satisfied with the outlook. He expects to capture most of the states visited, and no longer regards President Taft as a rival.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

A Moment of Temptation.

The school census enumerator called. He was a friendly appearing sort of young gentleman and did not wear horns and a barbed tail as one representing the awful majesty of the government is supposed to do. We had dreaded his coming, as it entailed the telling of our right names and other disagreeable things. But he was such a suave individual that he might have been the leader of a society of gentlemen.

He also wore the button of our great and glorious order so we invited him in and gave him our Louis XVII arm chair in front of our solid onyx fireplace. "To begin with," said he with Chesterfieldian politeness which was only exceeded by his good looks, "who is the head of the house?"

We were alone with him and not a soul was around to hear. It was a moment of terrible temptation, a moment for which we had waited years and years and it seemed almost too good to be true. The time had arrived the psychological instant as it were, to make good a dream of long standing.

Yet we hesitated. We know not why, but right at the crisis of our life we hesitated and stammered and stammered like a bashful school girl with a recitation.

"Well," he repeated, "who is the head of the house?"

We have always been truthful and truth conquered again this time. With a strong sense of defeat and the knowledge of an ambition unfulfilled we stammered weakly: "Wait just a moment, please; I will go upstairs and call her."

After the Vacation.

It's flatter than flounder, yes, indeed.

Looks like some elephant had stepped on it.

Or just as though it had been pressed beneath

Some tailor's goose. It doesn't bulge a bit.

It's been dry cleaned and ironed out for fair.

It's lost the portliness that once it knew.

The last few days have made it lean and lank.

And even now the shopping is not through.

A sheet of paper's flat, so is a pane of glass or even a safety razor's blade.

But for a flatness genuine, this thing can cast them all completely in the shade.

It is a sad and melancholy sight. I haven't got the heart to look at it.

No Use to Us.

We are in receipt of a splendid volume entitled, "Game Laws for 1912 went by Charles Brewster down at Washington." We have read the same carefully, but can't find a word about that great American game, draw poker. It doesn't tell whether a man may keep an ace in his shoe or deal off the bottom when playing with a man from Battle Creek. It doesn't even tell whether three typewriters and a pair of bellhops beat a straight.

No mention is made of golf, skat,

sixty-six, football, ping pong, blind man's bluff or action pinocle or the rules governing the same. Outside of that the volume is all right. We wish to thank Mr. Brewster for his thoughtfulness, but we cannot see just how the book is to be of any great value to us.

once strike, which were openly against the church.
The great separation between the church and the working man, he said, was partly due to the fact that the church does not lead in working against the fundamental difficulties that confront the workingman. He urged that the church should do more to Christianize socialism; that the church point the way to social law; that the churches work together more for the betterment of social conditions; and that the church should show more of a democratic spirit.
"Women ought to be forbidden to wear expensive hats and fine clothes in church," he said, "and the men to wear silk hats. There is too much aristocracy and oligarchy in the display of wealth in the churches."
As a solution for these questions, he said: "The spirit of Jesus could solve all problems." The real danger of socialism, he said, was that at present there was a great social unrest like a great volcano which a single human word could erupt in the form of a social revolution.
In the open discussion, comparisons of socialism as it exists in England and America were made, and Dr. David Beaton of this city told of the work of the church in starting the social movement in England. Since then, it was brought out, the church and the Christian workers, the body originally interested in socialism in England have had less to do with the subject, and socialism as it now exists in England has considerable less of a spirit of Christianity.

Woman's Suffrage.
"Woman's suffrage is not a question of woman's rights, but a question of duty," declared Rev. L. C. Randolph in his address this morning, "and unless it is conceived as a duty, it won't get very far. Rev. Randolph's talk was clear and concise, and his stories to illustrate the points he desired to bring out were aptly selected. The moral question, he said, was coming more and more to the front in public questions and women are especially interested in that phase of them. It seems, he declared, as if we are coming into a new epoch, a new stage in the advancement of mankind. He ridiculed the idea of the suffragette as a woman of the vociferous, manly type and said that the present state leaders in the state movement for equal suffrage are Christian women and modest womanly women. In the fight for suffrage, Rev. Randolph declared that it is women working for the protection of the home who are leading.
The preliminary question to the moral element in the consideration of woman's suffrage, he said, is whether woman is fit. In discussing this question he said women are not as fit for the vote at present because they have not been trained. Reasons for not extending the ballot to children, aliens, criminals and insane persons were given and the question raised: "Why not to women?" Men are willing, he said, to entrust women with the responsibilities of the home, the schools, and various other lines of human endeavor, but refuse them the ballot.

"I don't say the women are better than the men," he said. "I don't think they are. But women have certain moral standards that the men need, just as the men have certain standards that the women need. Women are equal morally to men and they have a deeper quality than physical bravery. When the home is threatened, the women are more brave than the men.
Examples of what woman suffrage has accomplished in cleaning up vice in Denver and Seattle were cited as arguments in favor of giving the ballot to women. The speaker also stated that woman was not represented by man in voting. "Man represents himself," he declared, "and I wouldn't respect a man if he voted because some woman wanted him to. We do not want the women to vote as men, but as wives, mothers, and keepers of the home, and from the standpoint of the home. We need the counsel of women not only at the fireside but at the polls.
Other arguments for suffrage included the statement that no eminent man in any suffrage state could be found who would oppose it in any statement under his own name; and that statistics showed that of the women who voted, the bad women were in the minority. He declared that the argument of the anti-suffragist, summed up, is that the giving of suffrage to women has not yet brought the millennium, and declared that the movement toward good, resulting from suffrage was progressing slowly but the trend was upward toward improvement.
In the open discussion following the address, Rev. Charles E. Coon of Evansville, led the discussion, and afterwards, pledges for the support of suffrage were presented by Mrs. J. W. Laughlin and signed by all of the ministers present.
Rev. J. W. Laughlin presented a paper on Home Missions and it was decided that all the ministers in the county association should preach on the same subjects during the month of November. The sermon subjects selected and the dates on which they will be given are as follows: November 3—"The Church as a Moral Force"; Nov. 10—"The Church as a Religious Force"; Nov. 17—"Our Country's Obligations to Christ"; Nov. 24—"Our Country as an Opportunity for Christianity." All the subjects are in connection with this campaign on the subject of home missions, and it was further decided that ministers in the different cities and towns of the county should write articles for their local papers. The topics chosen were: "The Children and the Church"; "The Church and the Young Man"; "The Church as a Religious Force"; and "The Church as a Moral Force."
The meeting was adjourned shortly before one o'clock this afternoon and at one the pastors took dinner at the Park hotel.

After the repast a program of informal talks was taken up. Rev. Rowell of Beloit president of the association presiding. Subjects dealing with their work in the church were discussed. The most important discussion of the afternoon, however, was expected on the topic "A Clean Bill of Health for Marriage," in which Dr. Beaton and Rev. John Reynolds, both of this city spoke. The other topics of the afternoon were: "Ministers' Fellowship," Rev. J. C. Hazen, Janesville; "Making Americans," Rev. J. W. Brown, Milton Junction; "The Country Parish," Rev. J. W. Horton, Shopshire; "Ministerial Compensation," W. J. Perry, Beloit.

Ministers attending the meeting were: L. G. Catchpole, David Beaton, J. W. Laughlin, J. C. Hazen, T. D. Williams and John Reynolds of this city; F. W. Hatch, W. A. Rowell, A. W. Penniman, W. J. Perry, William Leek, Beloit; A. J. C. Bond, Milton Junction; Charles E. Coon, Evansville; F. H. Ambrose, Footville; William C. Sainsbury, Orfordville; and J. W. Horton, Shopshire.

Woman's Suspicious Reticence.

Are women beginning to talk less in the hope of thus better pleasing men? If so, while commending the motive, we would unhesitatingly question the method. The mere music of their voices as contrasted with the raucous male note easily counterbalances any possible disparity in the ideas expressed. Upon all grounds we cry out for loosening of the delicate tongues now so strangely and so suspiciously stilled.—North American Review.

Originated Dinner Custom.

We are told that in Venice originated the custom of giving favors to guests. Henry III. attended a sugar banquet in the doge's palace where plates, cups and even napkins were formed from sugar, and 300 spun sugar effigies were given to the ladies. This dinner of state lasted three hours, and king Henry brought with him his own bottle, who presided over the wines.

"HOW THE VOTE WAS WON"

PROVES THE DRAWING CARD Playlet at the Golf Club Tuesday Evening Promises to Be Most Entertaining.

That the promised playlet, "How the Vote Was Won," to be given at the Sunnyside Golf club Tuesday evening, is a decided drawing card is evidenced by the advanced orders for supper at the last regular club day of the present season. The play follows the summer, before the last regular club dance, and is said to be a most clever skit with the parts well taken by the younger members of the golf club. This is the closing club day for the season and many will be present for the festivities.

BULL MOOSE PARTY IS SLOWLY DYING THROUGHOUT LAND

General Resume of the Political Situation From the G. O. P. Side of the Fence.

By Charles F. Scott.

Chicago Sept. 30.—The Bull Moose may be dying hard, but, nevertheless, and notwithstanding, the Bull Moose is dying.

In other words, Roosevelt is now practically eliminated as a factor in the presidential contest. This is the summary of hundreds of letters received this week at the western headquarters of the Republican National Committee in this city. It was cautiously asserted in this correspondence, that the Roosevelt movement was apparently dying out. Information which has reached headquarters this week removes the matter from the domain of doubt. Letters written by different people in widely separated localities, not with any collusion but from the standpoint of independent observation, show that the movement is becoming moribund. Everywhere Republicans are returning to the party ranks, refusing to be led into a bolting organization which is nothing more or less than a Democratic Aid Society.

The unanimity of testimony carries conviction and the disintegration is so plainly shown as to fully warrant the prediction that the Roosevelt third term party movement will collapse before election day.

It is not necessary to take Republican evidence only. A Democrat of national prominence who was actively engaged in promoting the candidacy of Champ Clark for the presidential nomination, recently sent out 15,000 letters to Democrats throughout the United States. In the replies which he has received, wherever the name of Roosevelt is mentioned, and that is in hundreds of cases, it is accompanied by the statement that Roosevelt is losing ground in the writer's locality.

And not only from the Democrats but from Roosevelt himself there is confirmation. If Roosevelt were gaining ground the Bull Moose would be bellowing loudly. Roosevelt, self-advertiser that he is, would be shouting from the housetops if he were gaining ground. His grudging denunciations of everybody and everything tell the story of his discomfiture. The fact is that not a single accession to the Roosevelt ranks has been reported since he began his campaign. On the other hand, thousands of desertions from him to President Taft have been announced.

It is especially true that Roosevelt was hurt rather than helped by his recent tour to the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast States. He indulged in angry denunciations and offered no practical remedy for the conditions of which he complained. The people could not help seeing that he was more of a demagogue than a constructive statesman. The coolness of his reception has inspired the Republican leaders to make an aggressive fight in California and they have been unwittingly aided by the Democratic managers who sent Bryan into the western country. California and the Pacific Slope went overwhelmingly for Champ Clark before the convention and the presence of Bryan was as a red flag in the face of a bull to the Clark men, for they had Bryan personally liable for the defeat of their favorite. When in addition to this the Clark leader in California was deposed and his organization turned over to a Wilson democrat, a situation was created in the Democratic ranks which helps the Republicans mightily.

The chapter on the Roosevelt decline might be indefinitely extended. In one precinct in Illinois a poll revealed the fact that Roosevelt will not receive over one per cent of the vote given to him in the primary last May. E. B. Hawkins who will be the new national committeeman from Minnesota says that the time has turned in his state; the Goldfield Morning Journal says that in Nevada Roosevelt is "a dead duck"; an Indianapolis business man who has been canvassing Indiana for his own information has received reports showing that the third party is rapidly decreasing in membership; reports from Missouri are to the same effect; while in Kansas the organization of the Republican party League demonstrated that President Taft had an unexpectedly large number of supporters. From every section comes the same reports, piling up one upon the other in convincing fashion.

It is worth while to remember, too, that in every state where the people had an opportunity to express their sentiment since the convention, the verdict has been adverse to Mr. Roosevelt. In Vermont his ticket ran third; in Maine the United Republican party overcame the Democratic plurality of 3,000 two years ago into a Republican plurality of 4,000 and gained a congressman. Those were regular elections. The primaries have made the same showing. In Michigan the Progressive vote was scattering, hardly reaching 8,000 out of 150,000 votes; in Minnesota and Colorado the Republican votes outnumbered the Democratic and Progressive votes combined; and in California the Roosevelt majority of 77,000 last spring dwindled this month to less than 3,000.

With the elimination of Roosevelt, President Taft of course gains a distinct advantage. If there be the menace of Roosevelt has led many Republicans to announce that they proposed to vote for Wilson in order to insure the overwhelming defeat of the ambitious third former. These Republicans are now declaring that they will support Taft. Former Representative Duncan E. McKinley, of California, is authority for the statement that there has been a revolution in this respect in his state and similar assertions are made by well informed men in other States.

This is one of the conditions upon which President Taft based his confident prediction of victory, issued by him during this week. There is ample ground for his optimism. It is shared by the campaign managers who are acquainted with the ground swell that is moving in this direction. They know that there is a growing feeling that the present prosperity ought not to be threatened by a change of administration. They know that the silent vote—the vote represented by business men and by farmers and manufacturers who place commercial and financial security and progress above politics—is turning toward Taft. They know, too, that Prof. Wilson's candidacy is not exciting any enthusiasm. As a matter of fact, Prof. Wilson was foolish enough to talk free trade to the farmers in Minnesota and they are wondering where they will land if he should be elected. All these things are putting backbone into the fight for Taft.

It is with the feeling that as in 1896 the people will steady down and decide for business stability and safe government and that President Taft's reelection will be the outcome, that the campaign managers have pushed the campaign this week with great forcefulness. They have decided to keep Messrs. Harlan and Bede pounding Roosevelt. They are going to put strong speakers, like ex-President Fairbanks, into the states visited by Prof. Wilson to attack his free trade fallacies and to prove the value of the protective system for every class of American citizens. They have determined to leave no stone unturned. The campaign of education is to be enlarged, the appeal to the country to maintain prosperity is to be made more emphatic than ever.

There is another feature in the situation which materially aids the Republicans. The electoral college this year contains 48 more votes than it did four years ago. 38 of those votes are gained by states which went Republican four years ago and are ordinarily in the Republican column while the Democratic states gain only ten electoral votes. The advantage of the increase at the very start is decidedly with the Republicans and makes it all the more difficult for Professor Wilson to secure the 266 electoral votes which he must have in order to be elected.

So that, with Roosevelt eliminated, with Wilson arousing no enthusiasm, with prosperity as a valuable asset with the American people realizing the absurdity of inviting Democratic distress and with the advantage of an increased number of electoral votes in states ordinarily Republican, the Republican campaign is now being waged with more earnestness and enthusiasm than ever before, and with a decidedly bright outlook for victory in November.

BASE WARNINGS ON INTERVIEWS WITH SHREDDER VICTIMS

Industrial Commission After a Novel Investigation Issues Bulletin to Wisconsin Farmers.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—Before the corn husking season begins in November, farmers of Wisconsin will receive a bulletin designed to save them the loss of arms, hands, fingers, etc., in the deadly corn husking or corn shredding machine. Under statutes of the last two legislatures the industrial commission is charged with the duty of enforcing the law which required that corn shredders and corn huskers shall be guarded. The commission has been successful so far in stopping absolutely the importation into Wisconsin of unguarded machines but at the present time it is estimated that there are nearly a thousand huskers, shredders and feed grinders so dangerously lacking in proper safeguards that human lives are constantly in peril, not to mention arms, hands and fingers. These machines were sold in Wisconsin before the edict against unguarded machines was issued.

Interviews of Victims.

The forthcoming bulletin of the commission will be unique in many ways. It will contain the results of an investigation made early this month of nineteen serious corn shredder accidents. The nineteen victims of these accidents were seen personally and interviewed. Everyone of the nineteen maimed victims of agricultural machinery admitted that the accident which lessened his efficiency could have been prevented by ordinary care.

The lesson to be drawn by farmers from the corn shredder bulletin is obvious in the extreme. In this bulletin the industrial commission cautions operators greater care on the part of operators of unguarded machines. It also tells how these machines may be made less dangerous by the attachment of simple guards. Like other bulletins of the industrial commission, the new publication is issued with a view to saving life and limb. The pamphlet will contain information regarding 55 serious accidents on huskers and shredders and 35 accidents on feed grinders.

Exhaustive investigation was made in the nineteen serious cases, a deputy of the commission visiting the injured persons, and also the owners of the machines. The stories told by the nineteen victims are graphic in their publicity.

How Accidents Occur.

No. 1, for instance, says: "I got up on the machine to oil the rolls while the engine was running. I found that the oil cups were filled with snow and was cleaning them out when I lost my balance and fell. My arm was caught in the rolls and cut off four inches below the elbow. Gangerman set in and the arm was removed at the shoulder."

This man is 42 years of age and had had several years of experience. He admitted that the accident was due solely to his own carelessness; that if he had used a stick to remove the snow from the oil cups, the accident could not have happened.

"The snapping rolls became clogged and I was trying to release the snapping rolls with a frozen corn stalk, when a bundle came along and pushed my hand into the rolls," says No. 2. His hand was cut off at the wrist. Investigation in this case showed that a hood extending over the rolls had been removed. If this hood had not been removed, the accident could not have happened.

Hands Caught in Rolls.

No. 4 says he attempted to unclog the husking rolls with a piece of frozen corn stalk three feet long. A corn stalk which had both ends caught in the rolls, formed a loop, and catching his hand, dragged it into the rolls. The arm was cut off three inches below the elbow.

No. 4 is twenty-three years old, and warns fellow farmers to use a stalk at least five feet long to unclog the husking rolls.

No. 8 says that if he had used a stick instead of his mitted hand to unclog the rolls, he would now have two hands. He has only one, however, at this time and his efficiency practically is cut in half.

"I had just begun feeding the machine," says No. 16, "when suddenly my feet slipped on the frosty foot board and in throwing out my hand to catch myself, my left hand was caught in the snapping rolls."

No. 16 lost three fingers and half of the thumb and might have lost his whole arm if his other hand had not stopped the machine. He is 24 years old and has worked shredders since the age of 14. Every one of the nineteen cases which the commission investigated give unmistakable evidence that the lives and limbs of farmers and their sons and all farm workers may be saved from the deadly grip of the corn shredder if intelligent care is maintained. In the analytical result of its inquiry the commission gives to the farmers the following rules:

Issue Eight Rules.

1. Never use the hands to unclog the rolls. Use a long stick or else stop the machine while the rolls are unclogged. Eight men were caught in the rolls while attempting to unclog them with the hands.

2. Every husker and shredder should be equipped with a self-feed. The feeder then will not have to stand within reach of the rolls. Fifteen arms and hands would have been saved if self-feeds had been provided.

3. On every husker and shredder where it is possible for the operator to get caught in the snapping rolls a safety lever should be provided. This lever should be attached so that the body of the feeder will strike it if his hands are caught in the rolls. This device would have prevented eight accidents.

4. When the feeder stands within reach of the snapping rolls, it is always dangerous to cut hands while feeding, especially if the knife is tied to the wrist.

5. The foot board should always be kept free from ice or snow. Two men slipped and lost their hands.

6. Every gear can be covered so that it will be impossible for hands to be caught. Nine men had their hands caught in gears.

7. Every sprocket should be guarded at the point where the chain runs on to it.

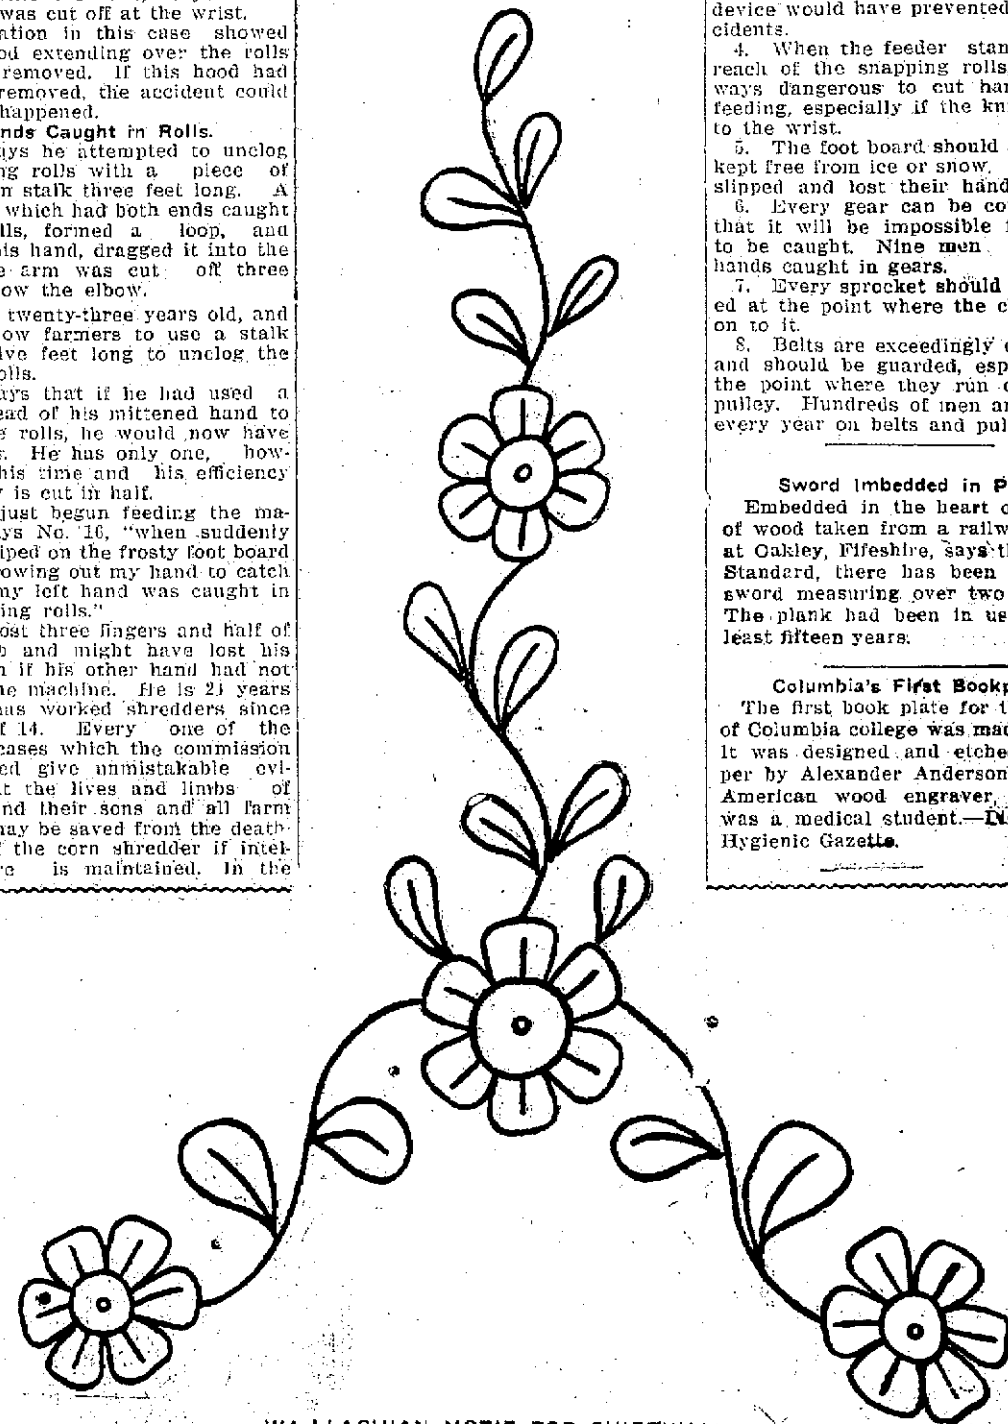

8. Belts are exceedingly dangerous and should be guarded, especially at the point where they run on to the pulley. Hundreds of men are injured every year on belts and pulleys.

Sword Imbedded in Plank.

Embedded in the heart of a plank of wood taken from a railway station at Oakley, Fifeshire, says the London Standard, there has been found a sword measuring over two feet long. The plank had been in use for at least fifteen years.

WALLACHIAN MOTIF FOR SHIRTWAIST.

A shirtwaist with a touch of hand work is a very dainty thing. The flowers and leaves in this motif should be done in the Wallachian work. This consists of a close buttoned-hole stitch, which is started at the upper part and center of each leaf, and the pointed edge is brought to the outside. Each stitch is slanted slightly. The stems are done in the outline stitch. Use mercerized cotton, No. 20, for this work.

SPECIAL FUR SALE

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

October 3 and 4

MR. DOHERTY, representing the large fur house of Revillon Freres, conceded to be the most reliable fur manufacturers in Europe or America, will be at our store with their complete line of furs for the season of 1912 and 1913 and will take orders for any garment carried by his firm or the above store. est price consistent with reliable quality. Revillon Freres are the oldest fur house in the world. They claim an unbroken commercial record, covering nearly 200 years. If you want to see the correct styles and obtain the most reliable furs that can be obtained, visit our store Thursday or Friday, October 3rd or 4th. On these days we will also offer special inducements in coats, suits, skirts, dresses, sweaters, waists, corsets, gloves, hosiery and underwear. Don't fail to take advantage of this special sale for it means a saving of money to you.

THE BOND

BY ELSIE ENDICOTT.

VERE PARKER of Charleston, prospective bride of the wealthy and prominent Gaylord Leighton, was spending the day in the attic of the Parker home.

A large, bright, roomy attic it was, with a wide cedar chest filled with wonderful old things. Vere had been glad to escape from the chaos below stairs, where every inch of space and all the members of her devoted family were given up to preparation for the approaching wedding.

She still sat on the floor, near the west window, where the reddening sun of an autumn afternoon struck across the golden brown of her bowed head, and glistened down upon the photograph she held in her hand.

Her profile was perfect with a full forehead almost hidden by thick waves of hair and a straight, delicate nose and clear-cut chin. Yet scarcely more attractive was she than the boyish face that looked up at her from the photograph. It was a manly, positive face, and handsome.

Vere had returned to the chest all her girlhood keepsakes but the small, worn portfolio which held this photograph and a few old letters.

The picture had been the parting gift of Hampton Collins, when Vere's father had forbidden him to see her. The letters had been written in the days of their boy and girl friendship, before a ban had been placed upon their association. They were frank, boyish letters with scarcely a hint of love. But the scene with Vere's father had brought Hampton to a realization of his own state of mind.

"You're without loving you, Vere; it is true," he declared passionately. "I love you now—love you so much—I shall go away, and make myself worthy of you, gain such great wealth and distinction that the audience will not disgrace even your father's princely fortune."

That was all. He had never written. To write he would have considered dishonorable.

But that could not be so many years ago, for Vere was only 20, now. It was three years—a short time for a young man to make a fortune. And—yes—a short time for a girl to forget.

But so many things are crowded into the three years preceding 20—pleasures and triumphs, homage and offers of marriage. But what were they all compared with the real happenings of those days when she and Hampton had been chums?

At first she had thought she would wait for him. Then had come a gay winter in Washington, and the inevitable engagement. Everyone had been in favor of Gay Leighton, fine, aristocratic, and wealthy, and Vere had believed herself happy. But the memories awakened within her by this afternoon's experience had changed her perspective.

She was suddenly looking back upon life, instead of forward to it. With a paroxysm of regret, she wished for what had been.

HAMPTON.

Sitting thus, in the sunlight, with the picture in her hand, she was un-mindful of the light, dignified step that came up the stairs and crossed the floor, and she did not feel the presence of Gaylord Leighton, standing aloof and behind her, until he spoke.

"Pardon me," said her fiance quietly, "I did not mean to surprise you." There was growing constraint in his voice. "They were all so busy below stairs that I undertook to find you myself."

Vere rose to her feet slowly. There was something strange in his manner to her, and she unconsciously checked her natural demonstrativeness. The picture she still held in her hand.

Gaylord Leighton was several years older than Vere. Her affection for him had arisen out of her admiration for his remarkable self-control—that and the approval of her friends—if she had only realized it. But now here was something new.

He looked almost savagely from the photograph to the little packet of old letters on the floor. She followed his glance.

"Do you know him?" she asked innocently—so innocently that there could be no dissimulation on his part.

"Vere," he said sternly, "I must have your assurance that there is no other attachment in your—your experience; no shadow of an attachment. You are young," he continued more gently, "and, perhaps, have not known your own mind."

As Vere faced the unyielding look of her fiance, she suddenly felt like a very young, forlorn and misunderstood little girl. It was all so unexpected and cruel—this thing that had happened. Vere turned away from her fiance, laid the picture on one of the high, cedar chests, bowed her head upon it, and sobbed.

She felt a touch upon her shoulder. "Tomorrow," said the cold, calm voice of Gaylord Leighton, "you may tell me your choice. Till then, goodbye," and he was gone.

Somehow, it was a relief to be alone. The girl dried her tears, gazing longingly at the out-of-doors, kind soother of all her girlish troubles. It would help her now, to go out there where the autumn trees were reddening in the park.

For a long time Vere had walked on a frequented boulevard, hearing nothing, seeing no one of the hundreds who passed her in conveyances of one sort and another. She could think only of her trouble and inability to decide. If only she could be sure that it would not wound Gaylord Leighton, she would give him up. She would—she must release him; it was not right—

She was just leaving the drive to turn into a more secluded walk, when a man's magnetic voice spoke, somewhat diffidently, her name. An automobile had stopped a few feet from her. She turned about and looked into the expressive, eager eyes of Hampton Collins, the occupant of the car.

"I was just going over to your house," he said, "but you are the one I wished to see." He was on the ground by her side, taking her hand. "Will you get in?"

As one who dreamed, Vere entered the car.

"I was almost afraid to speak to you at first, Vere," he continued, "but I guess it's all right; you are glad to see me?"

He was looking down at her, more handsome, more commanding than ever, and yet, the same good, old chum. "Vere, if you will pardon me, I must say that you are lovelier than my expectations."

"I am engaged, Hampton," confessed Vere impetuously. "I am to be married in three weeks."

"I know it." There was an odd calmness in Hampton's voice. "Saw the announcement in the paper. That is the reason I crossed a continent to be here—to see you."

The girl buried her face in her hands.

"Vere," pursued Hampton, drawing her hands down and imprisoning them both in one of his, "you have been mine for—well, ever since we used to play together in the sand there by the lake—and how long have you been engaged to Leighton?"

"Oh! it isn't that," cried the girl; "you can't reason it that way, it is a goiter, father, Gaylord, society—I can't bear to displease—disappoint them."

"Society, society," repeated the young man grimly. "Vere, do you love me?" He bent toward her, drawing her eyes with the intensity of his gaze. "Do you love me, little girl? Tell me that—say it just once."

"Yes, O, yes, Hampton, I love you, but it can't be—it is impossible!"

"You are willing to ruin three lives, then, for the sake of what people may think?" Then, tenderly, as he saw the pain in her face. "It is enough, Vere, if you love me. I shall keep you always."

As the automobile drove up before the Parker residence to leave Vere, Gaylord Leighton came out of the house and passed up the street.

In half an hour Vere received a note from her fiance, brief and reserved, but not unkind, to say that she was released from her promise—that, in the light of recent developments, he should consider their union unwise, even impossible.

When she had read it, Vere flew upstairs once more, to the high cedar chest in the attic, to bow her face upon the old photograph; but her tears, this time, were tears of joy.

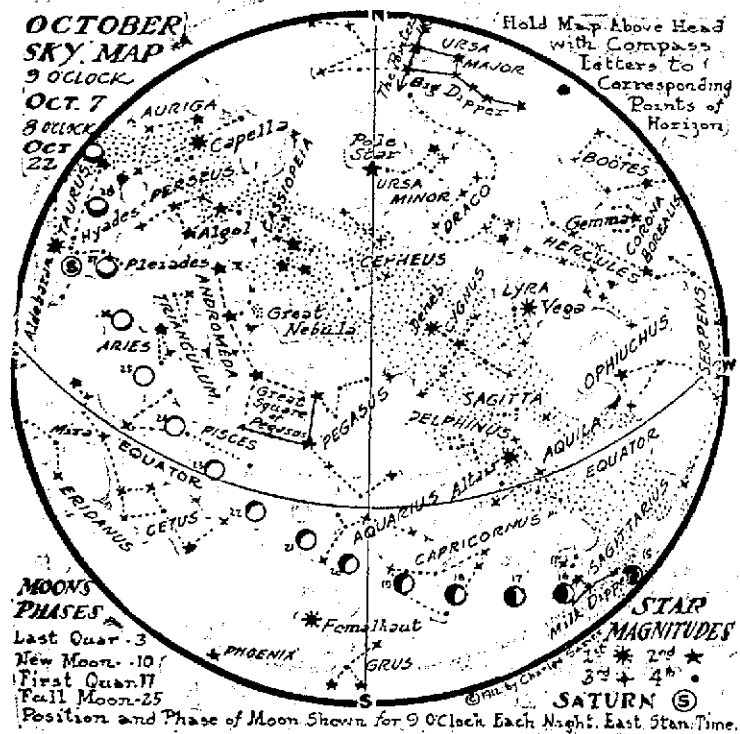

Contradicted.

The play was dull from start to end and the author thus addressed a friend: "It 'twas not a bit, 'twas a miss, for I didn't hear a single hiss." "True," said his friend, "but in such weather no man can hiss and gape together."

One of the Symptoms.

"But," queried the sweet girl graduate, "how can I tell when I am in love?"

"Oh," replied the fair widow, "when you think you think as much of a young man as you think of yourself—that is love."

I will require some time yet to adjust the country's available banking surplus to its monetary requirements. Unfortunately conditions abroad are more apt to aggravate the situation than otherwise. It is anticipated that the Bank of England will advance its discount rate to 5 per cent in October. Further gold imports by the United States would hasten such action. To close students of the financial situation, the flurry in call money was not unexpected. Surprise is even expressed that temporary rates are not higher than is the case. The broad demand for money in commercial circles is most unusual. The outlook is for high rates for money for several weeks more.

The Stock Market.

The advance in prices inaugurated some ten days ago in the face of a disturbed financial situation, was a genuine outburst of bullish enthusiasm. It has been many months since there has been such a wide public interest in the stock market. In fact, the advance was almost solely the result of public buying. It now remains to be seen whether the banking interests will cooperate with the public and carry the advance further, or at least assist to sustain the present level of prices. A sharp advance in rates for call money would seem to indicate that the banking interests do not favor any material rise at this time. However, owners of stocks show little disposition to part with their holdings and a continued public interest will no doubt carry prices much higher. Under these circumstances the temper of the general public seems to be the controlling factor in the present movement.

Public Utility Stocks.
The shares of Light & Traction companies are growing in public favor, because as a rule they yield a higher rate of income than the Railroad shares. A tendency to group a number of companies under the control of a holding company is a popular field of enterprise. Economics in management from such amalgamations have been highly successful, particularly in the Southern and Central states. The shares of some of these companies during the past six months have advanced enormously, notably American Light & Traction and Columbia Gas & Electric. This week an initial dividend of 1 1/2% to be paid quarterly is announced for the preferred stock of the American Public Utilities Company. In Ohio, a re-organization of the Toledo Railways & Light Company is well under way. The high income to be derived from Public Utility stock is attracting many investors.

HOGS TAKE ADVANCE ON TODAY'S MARKET

FRESH RED CABBAGE FOUND ON LOCAL VEGETABLE MARKET

Fresh red cabbage is the feature of today's vegetable market; it is the first to be found on the local market this season and it is very abundant. It is retailing for 5 cents a head. Hubbard squash which came on the market sometime ago is still very good but it is getting to be a little scarce. They are selling at 15 and 20 cents each. The canning pears which have been of such an excellent quality this season are still very good but they are not as plentiful. They took a slight decline in price this morning and are now bringing two cents a pound. Grapes of the Tokay variety are getting to be very fine and there

A. I. TAGGART IS CALLED BY DEATH

An Old Resident of Evansville Passes Away Saturday Afternoon—Funeral on Tuesday.

Evansville, Sept. 30.—A. I. Taggart an old settler and business man here passed away at his home Saturday afternoon at about four o'clock after a week's illness. The funeral is at 2:00 o'clock from the house, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. R. Story.
Mrs. Ezra Glidden received a telegram Saturday morning announcing the death of her aunt, Mrs. E. R. Story of Milton, age eighty-three years. The deceased was a sister of the late D. H. Glidden and is well known here. Funeral was today at 2:00 p. m. from the home of her son, Frank Story, Milton.

Evansville Locals.
Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Robinson are entertaining the former's mother, Mrs. Alice Robinson at a week's end visit.

Grant Howard of Magnolia was in town Saturday.

Miss Charley Windsor of Fulton visited her brother Charles Windsor over Sunday.

Miss Madge Robinson who is teaching in Sparta visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson over Sunday.

Irwin Meyers, U. of W. spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Meyers.

At the meeting of the school board Friday night, no special business was done except the ratifying of the hiring and paying of the teachers and the passing of a few small bills. The Phoenix Literary Society met last Friday night in the main room of the seminary. The program given as follows was well rendered:

Music.....Seminary Glee Club
Extemporaneous Speech.....Harry Schmidt
Instrumental Solo.....William Marshall
Current Events.....David Fenwick
Music.....Seminary Glee Club
Ten minutes parliamentary drill was conducted by Mr. Babcock.
The next meeting will be Friday night, October 4, and will be an open one to which everyone is cordially invited.
The outlook for the Phoenix this year is particularly promising. Below are the officers appointed for the coming semester:
President.....Merwin Noble
Vice President.....Thomas Johnson

SEES FIGHT AHEAD. REFUSES TO RUN

Charles M. Start.

Judge Charles M. Start, Republican, who has been chief justice of the supreme court of Minnesota for eighteen years, and who was renominated at the recent primaries, has announced his withdrawal from the race, and for the first time in the history of the state the chief justiceship may go to a Democrat. C. M. Stanton is the other candidate nominated at the recent Minnesota primaries for the place, and his election may not be opposed.

Solving the Yolkless Egg Problem.

William C. Christine, a carrier on one of the rural routes out of Washington, puts in his spare time raising chickens, and he claims to have developed a hen that lays yolkless eggs. Christine says this hen has laid half a dozen eggs of that variety. It is his ambition to supply yolkless eggs to bakers and caterers for use in icing cakes.

THERE ARE MANY TAILORS, but comparatively few whose work can be characterized as exceptional. The fact is, most tailors are content to turn out work which is sufficiently good not to be termed bad, but not good enough to be described as really high-class. We belong to the more ambitious class of tailors who have keen, artistic perceptions and who strive to put into their work something more than mere mechanical perfection. We achieve the latter, but add to it that touch of individuality which makes the tailoring exceptional in quality and appearance. In addition to our immense stock of fashionable Dress Fabrics, we have a style book containing over three hundred samples of high-class cloakings, suitings, etc., including the new Mackinaw cloths, from which you can select. CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

Two Ways of Getting Ahead.

A BUSINESS man was heard to remark, "Tom is just a little sore at me, because I'm getting ahead and he isn't. But it's his own fault. His idea of saving is never to spend a cent. He never goes anywhere. He dresses shabbily. He doesn't keep up with the times. And, consequently, he's in a rut with his nose always at the grindstone. Now I believe in saving a certain amount. But I believe also in having, within the bounds of good sense, the things that are worth having, whether they are a beautiful home, good clothes, an automobile, or a trip. So I keep my eyes open to see ways to earn the money to get these things. Tom's policy is to do without. But mine is to acquire. And if you go about and keep in touch with things you are able to earn more."

This is in line with the policy of another successful business man, whose motto is, "Don't cut your expenses down; bring your income up."

Without analyzing their attitude too critically, these men are working, perhaps, the one from a positive, the other from a negative outlook on life.

It is a viewpoint to think upon, isn't it?

One can sacrifice too much to saving. A business woman who was building a house for herself was urged by relatives and friends: "Now, save every cent and get your house paid for as soon as possible."

"I'll do nothing of the kind," she retorted. "I'm not going to atrophy for that house. I'll save some and pay on it. But I'm going to good plays and operas just the same as I always did, and I'm going to Europe next summer."

The relatives gasped and held up their hands in horror and predicted the sheriff. But she held to her course. It took her a little longer to pay for the house. But when it was paid for she was the same alert, up-to-date business woman she was, when the first stone of this house was laid. If she had cut everything out of her life, but building and paying for that house, she wouldn't have been half so valuable from a business point of view, and she wouldn't have been half so interesting and charming.

The tendency with most of us, when outgo creeps up more than income, is to check the outgo. We begin to cut off this and that, to do without. But perhaps the more scientific way would be to cast about to increase the income.

At any rate, this is the policy of many successful people. And their experience is worth some consideration.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

BE YOUR OWN COMPANION.

"B E ABLE to be alone."

—Sir Thomas Browne.

Are you good company for yourself?

A young woman in the course of a vacation trip was left alone for a few days in a strange city where she did not know a single person. When the friends for whom she was waiting joined her, they were loud in their expressions of sympathy for the terrible boredom she must have suffered.

The young woman opened her eyes wide in amazement. "Why, I had a lovely time," she said.

"What did you do?"

"Well, I went shopping and then went out to the park and looked at the animals. Then I walked up and down the avenue and watched the people, and thought about them and what they were doing. Altogether, the time just flew by."

"And you weren't lonely?"

"Not a bit," said the young woman frankly. "I suppose I could have made friends with some of the women at the house, but, do you know, I didn't really care to. I guess," she concluded with a smile, "that I'm pretty good company for myself."

Wasn't she a lucky woman, or more likely, a wise one?

"Be able to be alone," says Sir Thomas Browne, thereby recognizing that the ability to be content with only one's self for company is something which can and ought to be cultivated.

There are a great many people to whom there is no prospect more terrifying than that of a few hours with only their own selves for company. To escape that terrible catastrophe, they will make friends with the most fearful bore or read the most stupid story.

I wonder if they realize, when they do that, what a commentary they are making on their own boredom?

If such people are marooned a few hours, not only without human companionship, but even without a book or magazine with which to screen their own stupidity from themselves, they are fairly frantic. "The surest way of not having any thoughts of your own," someone has said, "is taking up a book every time you have nothing to do." In those days of cheap and copious reading matter, that is exactly what three-fourths of us do.

Is it any wonder, then, that most of us do seem to be rather short on thoughts of our own and not very successful as companions for ourselves?

Could you enjoy just watching a crowd of people pass by?

Could you be happy alone in a strange city?

Could you enjoy a long walk in the country by yourself?

In short, are you "able to be alone?"

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—My husband and I have an argument concerning the relationship of our aunts and uncles to our baby. Please settle this question for us. MOTHER.

They are your baby's grand-aunts and grand-uncles.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Will white shoes be worn for street wear all winter?

L. H. W.

No. They are out of season now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—What will take mildew out of a white garment?

BERNICE.

Mildew is hard to remove if of long standing. Javelle Water is the best thing to use. To make: Put one pound of soda into granite pan, add quart boiling water. Dissolve. Add one pint 2 quarts cold water, let settle and pour clear liquid into the dissolved soda. Fottle and keep in dark place. Make short applications, rinsing well after each, until mildew is gone.

DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

All You Need is a 25 Cent Bottle of "Danderine"—Hair Gets Lustrous, Fluffy and Abundant at Once. Destroys All Dandruff.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is seraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Known's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it. Adv.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a mother of seven children, of whom only one is of age. I have lived a life of hardships and many trials and now that I have three children working and have laid away some money, my husband, who was a hard drinker 22 years ago and made good wages and many debts which he could have paid, now wants to take this money and pay the debts he made. He quit drinking ten years ago. I told him his shoulder and he said if I wouldn't give him the money he would keep his wages until he had everything paid. Do you think it right for my children and me to suffer for the debts he made 22 years ago?

SUFFERING MOTHER.

No Mother, I don't. A man ought to pay his debts, but his first debt is to his wife, and when she is properly paid then he should go about paying others. The debts he made 22 years ago are outlawed now and he does not have to pay them, though it would be a square thing if he would do so without hurting his family. He cannot take all his salary to do this, however, as the law will compel him to give a certain portion to his wife.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) Is there any way of putting the ridge of the nose back in place without an operation? (2) Also, are black eyebrows and eyelashes becoming to red-haired girls?

ESTELLE.

(1) No. (2) It should make a striking combination.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a farmer 22 years old, have no bad habits and many friends. Have been keeping company with a school teacher 23 years old. Her father's object very much, the only reason being that I have not money enough, while I have just as much if not more than the ones who object. They are continually trying to break up our friendship because they have someone in mind who is wealthy. Should I give up to their wishes, when I love her and my love is returned. READER.

Stand by her, if you love each other, and if you can support a wife, ask her to marry you right away. Remember, it is even harder on her than on you if her folks are trying to separate you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a young man of 22 and have asked a girl 17 to be my wife. She consented, but her parents object, as I am a Catholic and she is a Lutheran. What shall I do? I am a carpenter and have only one bad habit—smoking. She is a sweet, good girl. She is Norwegian and I am German. XXXX.

Differences in religion usually make for unhappiness between married people, though there is but one God over all and religion is only the way we worship Him. If you love this girl enough to change your religion to hers, or if she should change hers to yours, you would stand a better chance of married happiness and you would go to heaven just as surely.

The KITCHEN CABINET

PRAY you, O excellent wife, says Emerson, "not to clutter yourself and me to get a rich dinner for this man or this woman who has lighted at our gate, nor yet a bed chamber made ready at too great a cost. These things, if they are curious in, they can get for a dollar at any village. But if this stranger, if he will, in your looks, in your accent and behavior, read your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, which he cannot buy at any price in any village or city, and which he must well travel fifty miles and dine sparsely and sleep hard in order to behold. Certainly let the board be spread and let the bed be dressed for the traveler; but let not the emphasis of hospitality lie in these things."

ICY DISHES.

During hot weather there is no more refreshing dessert or main course accompaniment than the ices and sherbets.

For a dinner of roast lamb, the following is excellent to accompany the meat:

Mint Sherbet.—Bruise the leaves of a bunch of fresh mint and pour over it in a large bowl a pint of boiling hot sugar syrup; add the juice of two lemons, the rind of one and a cup of shredded pineapple. Freeze.

When half frozen, add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Freeze to the consistency of white snow.

Combination Sherbet.—For this one may use a cupful of two or three kinds of canned fruit juices, choosing those that blend well. A cup of raspberry juice from preserves and a cup of pineapple syrup is a good one to combine; add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and a pint of sirup made by boiling together five minutes a cup of sugar and a pint of water. When cold, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and mix all together. Freeze quite stiff and then add the white of an egg beaten stiff with a tablespoonful of powdered sugar.

Milk Sherbet.—The juices of four lemons, two cups of sugar and a quart of rich milk, all mixed together and frozen, makes a very nice and economical sherbet. This is sometimes called velvet sherbet.

Grape Juice Sherbet.—This is the most beautiful watermelon pink when carefully made, and tastes as good as it looks. Take a pint of grape juice, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a cup of sugar, or more, depending upon the sweetness of the grape juice, and a pint of thin cream. Freeze.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

by Henrietta D. Grauel

FOR a generation, it is claimed, there were no appreciable progressive changes in women's work in their homes; in every other walk of life new inventions lightened labor.

Now women are making up for lost time; electricity is making the most noticeable difference in houses where it is used, gas is the next greatest help, but the most apparent strides are in the working implements.

Aluminum utensils, light to handle, easy to clean, make what was once drudgery, pleasant duty, and in every kitchen where there is due regard to the care of the nice utensils asbestos has a place.

This substance has been put to many uses; it reminds one of the man who "blew hot, then blew cold," for refrigerators are lined with it to keep out the hot air, and ovens and fireless cookers are faced with it to keep the hot air in.

Asbestos comes from a Greek word, meaning unchanged by fire. The Greeks made a cloth of it in which their dead were wrapped for cremation, and in which their ashes were saved.

The art of using the mineral was lost for years and only the discovery of some of the ancient burial cloths led to its again becoming useful. The water, cold, and heat-proof roofing now made from asbestos, as well as the asbestos mineral paints, are imitations of the old Greek product.

America has some of the largest asbestos deposits in the world; this has made it possible for American women to have it in so many household articles.

Cultivate Concentration.

Concentration is the secret of strength.—Emerson.

DRIVEN BY LOVE INTO UNDERWORLD

Mrs. May Whitacre.

"I loved him. I believed in him. I thought the man I loved so much wouldn't wrong me. He told me to do it and I did it. What is there so terrible in obeying the man you love?"

Thus Mrs. May Whitacre, seventeen, bride of a few weeks, told a Cleveland judge how her husband, aged twenty-eight, forced her into a life of shame while he lured.

Whitacre was given six months in the workhouse and a fine of $100. The girl was given into the custody of her sisters.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN Food Specialist

SIMPLE DIET FOR RHEUMATISM.

Dr. Hoyt, writing on "The Ride of Rheumatism," says that the diet should be selected with a view to preventing auto-toxemia, as simple and elemental as possible. He suggests rice and bread with butter or butter-milk and crackers. This is essentially the principle of the monodiet which has been systematically advocated by the writer of these Hints for several years, and demonstrated by his own experiments on himself, and many cases reported by readers. Auto-intoxication is the fundamental physical cause of disease, and if the simple diet will avoid it in sickness, so as to allow the recuperative powers to overcome the disease, a like benefit will accrue from the practice in health, giving a greater efficiency and more permanent health, as experience proves. The benefit, if any, derived from indulging the habit of mixing foods indiscriminately, is not enough to offset the loss of efficiency and health that follow the adoption of a simple diet, after the system has been gradually adapted to the change.

"When he was dying he says to me, 'Wife, I know I've been a lot of trouble. I know I haven't done right by you and the boy. But somehow after I'd took the first glass I didn't have any will left. I was easy persuaded.'"

"It was mostly one man—the one that used to come here so often. He'd say, 'Oh, come along, Bill. Don't mind the old woman. Be a man and have a good time while you can.' And after he'd treated to a drink, I was all in. I know I ain't done right by you, wife. I wish I had another chance. But you tell the boy not to be easy persuaded and never take the first drink. It's the first; one that leads to the next; and then a fellow don't see straight any more."

"I sometimes wonder," finished the little mother, "if a lot of good men aren't just like that—easy persuaded and going down 'hill' because some friend of theirs keeps a pushing from behind, and they can't see what he's doing until it's too late."

ENDOWMENTS OF LIFE GIVEN FOR SERVICE

TALENTS OF MEN TO BE DEVELOPED, OR ABUSED SAYS DR. DAVID BEATON.

PARABLE OF TALENTS

Used as Basis for Sunday Morning Sermon at the Congregational Church And Great Morals Taught by Parable Pointed Out.

The proper use of the talents given by God to men, that they may be developed and may be a benefit to the individual and other men as well, was a part of the theme of the Sunday morning sermon by Dr. David Beaton at the Congregational church yesterday morning. Dr. Beaton's subject was "The Great Investment of Our Life," his text being taken from the nineteenth verse of the twenty-fifth chapter, a part of the parable of the talents: "After a long time the lord of these servants cometh, and reckoneth with them."

"The reckoning as spoken of in this verse," said Dr. Beaton, "is given rather a sense of judgment and the idea of severity by the part of the Lord, but it has rather a commercial significance. There is no supposition of wrongdoing, rather that the servants should give an account to God as a rewarder, father and friend. The divine idea is therefore rather of trusts to be accounted for and rewards to be given."

"Some weeks ago I spoke on the subject of 'Life as an Adventure.' I have been interested to read how many of the interests of life are related as adventures."

The parable of the talents, which speaks in particular of the work of God in his political and commercial ventures in South Africa.

"There is a place," said Dr. Beaton, "where the adventure meets itself in an investment. Rhodes was not an explorer and he was not a speculator. He was an investor. An investment means that the idea of gambling has been eliminated as far as is possible, and the adventurer takes part of the values of possession; it is something that you can realize some value for the moment upon. It is going to get your personal care and supervision. I want to call your attention to the endowments of life. You and I have some valuable endowments and it is our business to trade with them, develop them and increase them, as the talents were given by the master to his servants to trade with and increase."

Life is a stage for great achievements, and the first thing we have to realize is, we have just one life. Every action of our life is charged with eternal interest. You cannot get away from this fact. You have to live in it. We are here but once and the opportunities never come back to us. They are not affected by our future existence. That is affected by the "Now." The one fact is that it is "Now." This is eternity.

"You and I have received from God and Nature a certain inheritance; you and I have certain qualities of mind, and I believe the powers of body and mind are about ninety-five per cent of what we have in addition we have education. Education may be ac-

This Cushion Gives You Extra Wear

That's one of the things you'll like about Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoe. It's not only the easiest shoe you ever put your foot into, but it wears much longer than ordinary shoes. Gives you months of extra wear—simply because the soft cushion insole spreads your weight over the whole sole—spreads the wear over the whole sole, and takes up the jarring and grinding that wear through a common leather shoe so quickly.

Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoe

Make it your business to come in tomorrow and see this shoe. There is nothing like it if you have to be on your feet much—for it does away entirely with tired, aching, burning feet—ends corns and bunions and keeps your feet normal and healthy. Makes walking easier—saves shoe-maker bills. Let us show you the many styles tomorrow.

THE INSURGENT.

(By Howard L. Rana.) THE insurgent is a piece of human dynamite who is always breaking in to the conversation with impious remarks regarding the southern delegates. He is the nearest approach to perpetual motion this side of T. Roosevelt.

Up until the last year or two the insurgent was not allowed to appear in public without a high check and kicking straps. Times have changed, however, and now he can go around and assault defenseless standpatters with impunity, and a rich, saw-tooth vocabulary.

As commonly understood, the insurgent of the present A. D. is a person who would be willing to trade the administration for anything from a milch cow to what have you. No reasonable offer refused.

There are several kinds of insurgents. The lodge insurgent is one who blackballs every candidate whose name gets past the outer guard, and thus prevents the lodge from growing too fast. He is usually about as popular as a Unitarian preacher in a Methodist church.

The business insurgent is one who trades western land for a bankrupt stock of clothing and unloads it at 30 cents on the dollar during fair week.

The social insurgent is generally a fearless female who pulls off a series of card parties during a revival meeting, thereby securing considerable free and undiluted advertising from the visiting brethren.

The church insurgent always manages to get on the official board, where he is prepared to show that the minister ought to support a wife and nine children on $600 a year and pay up money. This kind of an insurgent can usually generate the longest prayer in the parish.

The newspaper insurgent is one who has a sliding scale of advertising rates, ranging from zero to all the traffic will bear. He also conducts his job department on the eleemosynary system.

One of the best things insurgency has done is to clean up the United States senate so that people can frequent it without carrying smelling salts.

SAY RISK SUIT IS BROUGHT FOR SPITE

Officers of the Bankers' Life Express No Concern Over Action to Appoint Receiver.

The officers of the Bankers' Life association and Bankers' Life company express no concern over the suit brought in Indianapolis by Charles W. McLoughlin, who asks for the appointment of a receiver. They declare the action is brought in a spirit of malice by a discharged agent now in the employ of a rival company.

Ernest E. Clark, president of the Bankers' Life, today declared that the discharged agent had frequently threatened to cause trouble because the company refused to reinstate him.

Calls it Spite Action.

"Anyone can start a suit," said an officer of the company. "Spite actions of this kind are often brought against reputable persons and institutions to disturb their standing in the community. This is the object of the present suit. We expected that a friendly action would be brought when we changed to the fixed premium method of doing business."

"While such test cases were contemplated at the time one after another abandoned the idea. This action is brought in a spirit of retaliation by an agent whom we had to discharge."

"Before changing our business methods we had the articles carefully gone over by the best lawyers we could employ, and we had them read before they were put in force. We have always been a mutual company."

"We have merely changed our form of doing business. Every company in the United States has done the same, and insurance companies are always doing this more or less."

Suit Outcome of Treat.

"This suit is merely the outcome of a threat. The instigator of this action was discharged by the company because we found he was an undesirable agent and was working against our interests. He wanted to be reinstated as our agent in Indiana. We refused and since then he has made threats to start something."

TWO DAMAGE SUITS FOR LARGE AMOUNTS

Baird vs. Carle and Ingalls vs. Worthington Important Jury Cases for October Term.

Two damage suits for large amounts are on the jury calendar for Rock county. That of Arthur A. Baird against Norman L. Carle for $100,000 for alienation of his wife's affections, Mrs. Baird being Mr. Carle's sister, and Wallace Ingalls' case against D. B. Worthington, et al, including the Beloit News Publishing Company, for $50,000 for alleged defamation of character, are the two cases. Of the eighteen jury cases notices for trial of which were received at the clerk's office Saturday, several are personal injuries cases for minor amounts. The town of Turtle is defendant in two cases involving injuries to persons in automobile accidents and the Northwestern railroad company is named defendant in several actions. Notices of trial for eleven cases fact for court, were also filed Saturday. At five o'clock the time for filing notices expired and the copy for the calendar was sent to the printer. The calendars will be issued the latter part of this week. The number of cases on this term is the smallest for several years. Judge Grimm will not transact any business at the local court chambers until the calling of the October calendar a week from next Monday, on Oct. 7. At this time a petition to put over the hearing of the October jury cases until November will be heard. The petition will be presented by members of the Rock county bar. There is little doubt but that it will be allowed by the court.

Now You Can Get Beer Without That "SKUNKY" Taste!

All you have to do is to ask for Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

Sunlight grows hops, but spoils the beer.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor," says no less an authority than the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the scientific authorities on the subject. "Beer so affected," they say, "is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

Why don't you, too, drink Schlitz? More and more people every year are demanding it.

We started in a hut. Today our agencies dot the earth. Our output exceeds a million barrels a year.

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON

Co-Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles'

Copyright by W. G. Chapman

My last o'clock I was back again in my room, where I loitered, amongst my books and pictures, in restless expectation. It was chiding midnight when there came a discreet tap at my outer door, and Addington Peace walked in. He sat himself down in the easy chair I offered, and permitted me to mix him a whisky and soda.

"Tell me, have you found the diamond?"

"No."

"Nor the thief?"

"I know him to be one of five men—that is all."

"Five? And how do you make that out?"

"It is very simple. The real diamond was examined by Professor Endicott; it was an imitation that reached Sir Andrew Carrillon. Therefore it is reasonable that one of the five who sat between them changed the one for the other."

"So you strike out the professor and Sir Andrew?"

"If either of them had been implicated they would hardly have raised the quarrel that resulted in the discovery of the theft."

"And this suspected five—who are they?"

"Our friend Colonel Gunton, the war office; the Hon. George Carstairs, Lord Winton's brother; Mr. Abel Field of Grey, and Field, car manufacturers; and the Rev. Aubrey Power, a minor canon of Westminster Abbey. I have made some light inquiries and had nothing against them. Carstairs, Craddock and Power are men of moderate income, the other two are rich."

"Yet this gives us one important conclusion. The actual thief is an amateur in crime. So far as anyone knows this is his first offense. But it was not a sudden temptation to which he yielded. On the contrary, he was carrying out on his part a plot that had been long and carefully prepared. He substituted an imitation diamond for the original as it passed through his hands—an easy matter; but who thought out the scheme; had this admirable imitation made, who knew that Taubery was leaving the country and that the diamond was to be sent immediately to the strong room of a bank, where the substitution that had taken place might not be discovered for months, perhaps years?"

"Who, in short, had the clever brain, the far-sighted judgment, the familiarity with jewels and those who deal in them, all of which would be required in the originator of such a fraud? Not Gunton, nor Craddock, nor Carstairs, nor Field, nor the Rev. Aubrey Power. There is some one who has influence over one of these men, some one pulling the strings behind the curtain. I shall consider it an honor to make that person's arrest, Mr. Phillips."

Inspector Addington Peace beamed upon me as he concluded his deduction concerning the theft of Julius Taubery's diamond, with an expression of hopeful enthusiasm, and lit a cigarette at my reading lamp.

"This unknown criminal genius has got the diamond, anyway," I said.

"I am not so sure of that. Consider the position of the actual thief on the discovery that the stone was false. He must have been in a state of blind terror. If we may suppose that Colonel Gunton is innocent, the bellowing of that worthy gentleman must have frightened him the more. To be searched, discovered, and actually disgraced—a pleasant prospect, surely? We may take it that he was heartily sorry for the part he had played; that he wished the diamond a thousand miles away. To get rid of it previous to the ordeal before the colonel and Professor Endicott in the library—that would be his object."

"Yet here I am met by the simple difficulty that I cannot find the diamond. I have made the closest investigation without result. As Colonel Gunton told us, Mr. Taubery remained in the dining room to see that none of the guests returned after they had been searched. The door was subsequently locked and a policeman stationed in the passage outside; the windows were fastened. Therefore that his furniture and carpets and fittings had been bought only a year or two before, and were not the loved collection of years. But the tumbled disorder, the mud of many feet upon the floor, the noise of the bidders answering, the raucous voice of the auctioneer, were all an insult to the peace, the privacy and the hospitable memories of a stately home. It was with relief that I saw Colonel Gunton's eyeglass shining near the window, and a little boy with him, whom he carried perched on his shoulder, well out of the way of the crowd.

"Hello, Phillips," he shouted, in a tone that successfully competed with the auctioneer's. "Come to see the last of old Taubery's household gods, eh? Confound those dealers, what a noise they make bidding for that table. 'Pon my soul, when I think how many good dinners I've had with my toes underneath it, I feel quite sentimental. I do, Phillips, strike me."

To emphasize his sensations he glared ferociously at a weak individual who was pressed against him by a swirl in the crowd, and asked him what in thunder he thought he was doing.

The great table was bought, the last of the heavy furniture; and there only remained a few details that were auctioned, some separately, some in oddly assorted lots. It was during their sale that my talk with the colonel was interrupted by the little boy upon his shoulder.

"Oh, father," he cried, "there's George's bicycle horse! Won't you buy me George's bicycle horse?"

A long-tailed, long-maned toy was raised by one of the auctioneer's men, who grinned under a running fire of chaff. I had an idea that I had seen that gallant charger before, though where I could not remember.

"Who is George?" I asked the colonel.

"It's Taubery's grandson. His daughter's a widow, you know; she and the boy live with the old people. Hi, there! ten shillings."

A gray-haired man in an overcoat who stood near by nodded his head at the auctioneer.

"Eleven shillings—going at eleven shillings."

"Fifteen," bawled the colonel.

"One pound," said the gray-haired man.

I had no idea what the cost of such toys might be; but the price, second-hand, seemed high. Several of the dealers gazed about the chair on which the auctioneer was standing looked back at us over their shoulders.

"Confound those dealers!" cried the colonel. "If an outside buyer wants anything they try to squeeze him out. They're all in league. It ought to be stopped. It's a monstrous shame. It's iniquitous. Twenty-five shillings to you, sir."

"Thirty," said the gray-haired man.

"Two pounds."

As the bids increased the temper of the colonel grew worse and worse. Those who were well out of his reach began to chuckle, and finally to laugh outright. At four pounds ten he hesitated. With a supreme effort he made it five.

"Guineas," said the gray-haired man. I am sorry to say that the colonel swore. In one stupendous oath he denounced all who dealt in second-hand goods of any description whatsoever. Then, with a description sobbing on his shoulder, he surged through the crowd like a battleship in a head sea, and disappeared amid a burst of disrespectful laughter. It was before the auctioneer had sufficiently recovered from his surprise that I felt a gentle touch on my arm. It was Addington Peace.

"There is a four-wheeled cab waiting about thirty yards up the street," he whispered. "Go and get into it. I will join you presently."

Quite half an hour had dragged by when the cab door was swung open and the detective sprang in. At the same time I noticed a covered cart with a black pony in the shafts pass the other window at a leisurely pace. Our driver must have had his orders, for he turned the horse and followed in the same direction.

Peace remained silent, so I left him alone and contented myself with staring out of the window. We were going northward, towards Hampstead. The lines of houses broke up into separate villas. Lilac and laburnum bushes peeped over the garden walls. The throng of traffic grew thinner, the pavement less crowded. It was past five when we drew up at a little public house. Peace nodded out, and I followed at his heels.

"He is unloading his cart in Ashley street, yonder," said the driver, leaping from the box, as he pointed with his whip to a side road. "Do you want me to wait, sir?"

The inspector nodded and disappeared through the inn door, leaving me on the pavement. As he had given me no orders I strolled back to the corner and peeped down the road, which ran at right angles to the one in which I was.

About forty yards away stood the little covered cart with the gray-haired dealer of the auction room talking to a lad beside it. Presently the lad crawled under the canvas hood and handed down the identical long-tailed horse that had brought about the public discomfiture of the gallant Colonel Gunton. The dealer pushed it across the stone pavement into a little furniture shop, and the boy, whipping up the black pony, drove quickly away.

I turned back to find the detective at my elbow.

"Peace," I said, "what is your interest in that bicycle horse?"

"It happens to play the comedy part in our little mystery."

"What do you mean?"

"Only that it has a hole in the saddle for a pommel should a little girl ride in it, and the hole leads down to a hollow inside. Do you guess what it was that dropped into the hollow inside?"

"Not Mr. Taubery's diamond?"

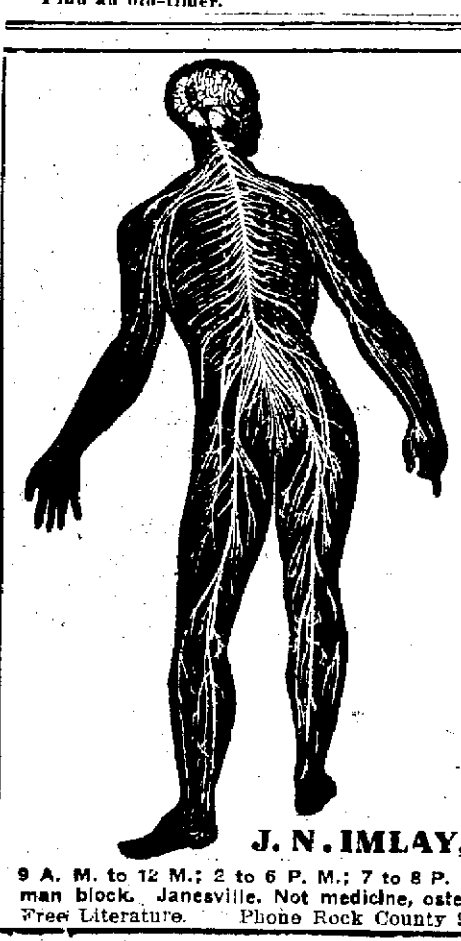

"Exactly. Yet we have still to find out the man who put it there."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, September 30, 1872.—The Matteson Property: Eastern parties have been in the city for several days past negotiating for the purchase of the Bunster lot, at the west end of Milwaukee street bridge; The Hyatt house lots, and some lands outside of the city limits. The title of this property is held by Hon. O. B. Matteson of Ulen, New York. The purchasers, Messrs. Thorne, Thayer and others, also of Ulen; if they succeed in obtaining a clear title, desire to sell the entire property; or, failing in that, if they can obtain the co-operation of our citizens, buy the mill lot adjoining the Bunster lot, and erect thereon a cotton or woolen factory. A little effort on the part of our minded men may secure the inauguration of an enterprise which will prove of incalculable advantage to the city.

Oh, often as I dance and sing and gambol up and down, I wish this country had a king, with sceptre, throne and crown. A monarch, when he takes his throne, is settled there for life; he lets the campaign graft alone, the whooping and the strife. The stately monarch ne'er appears on platforms here and there, the dust of travel in his ears, and cinders in his hair. He isn't called on to defend his course to myriads of antagonists; he doesn't send to Ananias Clubs; he doesn't make the HIGH TREASON welkin throb, but in his throne room sits and learns the fine points of his job, while others throw the fits. Serene, remote, he does his stunt, attends his kingly grind; no noisy grand stand is in front, no bleachers are behind. He doesn't have to promise things he knows he cannot do; he plays along like other kings, his pledges mighty few. He doesn't have to knuckle down to please this clique or that; he simply wears his derby crown and knows just where he's at. But we, who have a brand new chief elected each four years, are always plunged in noise and grief and rancor to our ears. When business gets to running straight, and quiet falls on men, we dig up some fool candidate, and rip things up again.

Educational Systems.

"Look here," said the father, "every page of your book is covered with finger prints." "It's an accident," replied the young student. "Well, it is some relief to hear that. There have been so many changes in handwriting that I was afraid they had decided to make a clean sweep and substitute the Berrillon system."

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertiser is omitted.

All newspapers have this experience. But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

ALL PIANOS

may look alike, but they do not sound alike, when you come to consider the quality of tone, then you will detect the difference. We have the pianos of quality.
